AUTO KILLS WOMAN WHO RAN IN WAY TO AVOID STREET CAR

Machine of Paint Company Foreman Strikes Negro Hairdresser at Boyle and Olive Streets.

SIX HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Two Women and Girl Injured in Collision at Bremen and Florissant Avenues.

Wilhelmina Talt, 35 years old, a negro, living at 4591 St. Ferdinand avenue, and employed as a hair dresser, was run down and killed at Boyle avenue and Olive street at 11 o'clock this morning by an automobile driven by Donald W. Winslow, 732 Bayard avenue.

Winslow, a foreman for the Loomis Paint Co., 4034 Washington boulevard, was arrested. He told the police that he was driving west on Olive street and that the woman ran in front of an east bound street car and in front of his machine, too late for him to stop.

The woman had a large number of customers in the West End. She was unmarried and lived with her mother.
The body was taken to the morgue.
Louis Leach, 40 years old, connected with the Western Mineral Water Co.
and living at 3535A Shenandoah avenue, was knocked down by a gray colored automobile as he alighted from a Jefferson car at Park avenue about 9 a. m.
The man operating the auto fled from the scene, although several persons shouted to him that he had injured a pedestrian. Leach was cut and bruised.
He went to his home.

Six injured yesterday.
Five children and a woman were injured in automobile accidents yesterday.

Mrs. Catherine Hehl, 45 years old, of 3311 Lafayette avenue, her daughter,
Vivian Hehl, and Carrie Cain, of 384
De Troit street, were hurt when the Hehl automobile collided at Bremen and Florissant avenues with an automobile driven by Thomas Patterson of 5043
Spaulding avenue. Mrs. Hehl was cut over the right eye and old, and was bruised. Patterson was arrested.

Nathan Erscovitch, 12 years old, of 4305 Evans avenue, was run down at Eleventh street and Washington avenue by the automobile of Rubin Kohler, 3091 Cass avenue. The boy's right leg was fractured. Kohler was arrested.

Raphael L. de Haven, 11, of 2413 Third Tenth street, was run over by an automobile of the Union Brewing Co. at Broadway and Carroll street. He was bruised about the body. Charles G.
Diedrich, 2701 Michigan avenue, who drove the auto, was arrested.

Florence Green, 6, of 4255 Cozans avenue, was knocked down at Pendleton and Cota Brillante avenues by a motor cycle ridden by Ernest Raimler, 720
North Twentieth street. Her left leg was fractured. Raimler was not arrested.

Two Children Knocked Down.
Lillian Rhyne, 7, of 5302 South Compton avenue, and Lillian Press, 6, of 5308
South Compton avenue, were knocked down by an automobile in front of 5402 Virginia avenue. They were only slightly bruised. The driver of the car stopped and asked the girls if they were hurt and when they replied that they were not, he drove on.

Francis Engermann, 16 years old, a postoffice special delivery messenger, was knocked from his bicycle in a collision at Whittier street and Kennerly avenue with the automobile of H. A.
Kaufman of 4238 Marfitt avenue, which was driven by the latter's son, Austin Kaufman, 18 years old. Engermann was cut on the face and left ear. He went to his home, 4102 Ashland avenue.
Kaufman's father was instructed to produce him in Juvenile Court when summoned.

GOETHALS TO STAY AT CANAL UNTIL SLIDES ARE CHECKED

He Withdraws Resignation as Governor of Panama and Goes to Scene of Trouble.

PANAMA, Oct. 7.—Major-General George W. Goethals has withdrawn his resignation as Governor of the Panama Canal zone.
This fact was announced by Goethals last night on his arrival on board the steamer Cristobal from New York after a vacation in the United States. His action was taken, he said, in view of the recent slides in the Gaillard cut.
Major General Goethals said he would remain in Panama until such time as the condition of the canal would permit an departure. His resignation was to have become effective Nov. 1. Goethals did not seem worried over the situation. He discussed it today with Lieutenant Colonel Chester Harding, engineer of maintenance, and made a personal study of the slides.

Garrison Permitted Goethals to Withdraw Resignation.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary
Garrison has given Major-General Goethals permission to withdraw his resignation as Governor of the Panama Canal, because of Goethals' wish to check the landslides before retiring. Acting Secretary Breckinridge said he had received word from the Secretary from Hot Springs, Va., that the resignation would not be presented.

This is another "Big Sale," equally as important as that Great Children's Sale held a few days ago. In order to advertise this "practically new" department we are actually going to give away $9200 worth of fine Undermuslins for $4700. It's one of the most sensational things we ever did, and it will prove to be the most wonderful buying opportunity any economical woman ever experienced. Think of $1.00 Combinations, 39c—50c Drawers, 19c—$1.00 Corset Covers, 38c. This is exactly what is going to happen at Kline's tomorrow, and the early shoppers will get "first pick" and waited upon first. LANSING HEARS SILLIMAN ON THE MEXICO SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary Lansing conferred today on the Mexican situation with John R. Silliman, the State Department's special representative at Vera Cruz, and with Ambassador Naon of Argentina, preliminary to the third pan-American conference here Saturday. Later the Secretary said he had no announcement to make.

Silliman went to the White House from the State Department and arranged to see the President later in the week. He is here at his own suggestion to report on the situation in Vera Cruz.

Conditions at Vera Cruz, Silliman said, were much better than supposed in the United States. The Carranza movement was unified, he said, and he believed Gen. Carranza sincere in his promises of carrying out the plan of Guadalupe. Carranza's great superiority in numbers, Silliman thought, would make it possible for him to subdue Zapata leaders.

COREY INTERESTS ACQUIRE 3 MORE STEEL CONCERNS

Midvale Steel and Ordnance Co. Also Obtains Option on 300,000,000 Tons of Ore.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Midvale Steel and Ordnance Co., a $100,000,000 corporation recently organized by William E. Corey, has, in addition to purchasing the Midvale Steel Co., acquired three other concerns and obtained an option on 300,000,000 tons of iron ore.

These concerns are the Worth Brothers Co. of Coatesville, Pa., manufacturers chiefly of steel plates; the Coatesville Rolling Mill Co., which is allied with the Worth Brothers, and the Remington Arms Co. of Delaware, a concern recently organized to manufacture arms and ammunition at Eddystone, Pa.

The latter company, which has leased properties of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and is building another plant at a separate plant from the Remington Arms and Ammunition Co. of Eddystone, Pa., but the announcement disclosed that Marcellus H. Dodge, president of the Remington Arms and Ammunition Co., is a director of the new Midvale combination.

With the exception of the United States Steel Corporation, the new Midvale company is the largest steel concern in point of capitalization in the country, and although Corey, who made the announcement of its additional acquisitions, declined to discuss the future plans of the company, it was thought in steel circles today that certain other concerns would be taken in at a later date.

Stands as Holding Company.
The Midvale Steel and Ordnance Co. stands as a holding company for the properties acquired and Corey's announcement said that in order to acquire these concerns and to provide working capital $70,000,000 of its stock would be issued.

In addition to Dodge, the board of directors of the company include Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank; Percy A. Rockefeller, Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National Bank; Charles H. Kahn, president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York; Frederic W. Allen, representing Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston; Ambrose Monell, president of the International Nickel Co.; Samuel F. Fryer, a director of the Baldwin Locomotive Works; William P. Barba, vice president of the Old Midvale Steel Co., and Alva C. Dinkey, the newly elected president of the old Midvale Steel Co. Corey becomes president of the holding company and a Dinkey vice president.

It was learned that the price paid for the Midvale plants was around $22,000,000. Corey declined to say what the cost of the other concerns had been nor would he disclose from whom the option on the 300,000,000 tons of iron ore had been secured. It was stated in steel circles that the ore fields probably were located in the Lake Superior district and rivaled those of the United States Steel Corporation in point of tonnage.

The Remington Arms Co., it was announced, has contracted to manufacture 2,000,000 rifles for the British Government. None of the concerns acquired, says the statement, has any debts other than current.

stock at 120 on Curb.
The stock of the company, "when issued," sold on the curb today at 120. Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who is negotiating for the control of the Pennsylvania Steel Co., has returned from Bath, Me., where he paid a visit at the plant at the Bath Iron Works. This concern, a ship building company, was formerly owned by the Bethlehem Corporation, and Schwab's visit gave rise to rumors that he contemplated its purchase. In regard to the statement that negotiations were pending for a change of ownership of the Cambria Steel Co., it was stated in responsible banking circles that in the event of a sale, H. C. Frick, who has an option on its stock, probably would appear as the vendor, and not associate himself with other interests in any contemplated combination.

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED

Body of Patrick J. Costello Will Be Removed From Potomac Field.
William F. Brennan of 1200 Washington avenue last night notified the police that the body of Patrick J. Costello, 30 years old, a retired blacksmith, which was buried in potter's field as an "unknown," will be exhumed and buried in Mt. Carmel Cemetery, East St. Louis, tomorrow. Costello's clothing was identified at the morgue yesterday afternoon by his daughter, Mrs. Stephen Shea, of 75 Trembley avenue, East St. Louis.

Costello disappeared from his rooming house, 1300 Washington avenue, Sept. 14 and nothing was ever heard of him. On Sept. 21 a body was taken from the Mississippi River at Leavenworth street and a few days later it was buried in the city's graveyard. Brennan told the police that Costello was in the habit of visiting the river front daily and it is believed that he accidentally fell into the water.

COLLEGE CLUB TO SELL HATS

Women Trim Own Stock to Dispose of for Endowment Fund.
The St. Louis Central College Club will conduct a hat sale at 1227 Franklin avenue, tomorrow and Saturday. The hats were trimmed by members at four all-day meetings at the home of Mrs. Samuel T. Bassett, the president, 1403 Good-fellow avenue.

Proceeds of the sale will be applied to a fund of $1000 which has been pledged by the club towards the endowment of Central College for Women, Lexington, Mo., of which the members are former students. At a similar sale last spring, which was the first of its kind in St. Louis, more than seventy-five hats were sold. More than 100 hats have been trimmed for the approaching sale, ranging from those for children to hats for aged women.

CHINESE PRESIDENT WOULD NOT BE EMPEROR, DR. GOODNOW SAYS

American Adviser, on Arrival at San Francisco, Declares Yuan Shi Kai Is Eager to Retire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Conditions in China are much the same as they were in Mexico during the Diaz regime, according to Dr. Frank Goodnow, legal adviser to the Republic of China, who arrived yesterday from Peking on the steamer Manchuria. Dr. Goodnow plans to go at once to Baltimore to take up his duties as president of Johns Hopkins University.

With reference to his conditional recommendations that the monarchical form of government would be best for China, Dr. Goodnow believes that the new republic will be able to solve her own form of government without serious internal trouble, if other nations would adopt a "hands off" policy. Because of age, Yuan Shi Kai is eager to retire from the presidency if he can do so, without hindering the progress of the country, according to Dr. Goodnow.

"President Yuan told me himself," said Dr. Goodnow, "he would not be Emperor if asked."

Fraudulent Deals May Total
$400,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 7.—A Coroner's jury yesterday decided that Theodore Peltzer, wealthy real estate man, died by accident in a fall from a window of his office on the fifth floor of the Scaritt Building here Sept. 28. That "there is evidence shown of a motive for suicide, but no positive testimony showing it to be such," was the declaration of the jury in its verdict, given after hearing witnesses testify that Peltzer had issued fraudulent deeds of trust and notes to an amount estimated by the witnesses at $400,000.

Because of this testimony and the failure of Peltzer's confidential secretary to testify before the Coroner's jury, Floyd Jacobs, County Prosecutor, issued a statement saying a grand jury would be called to examine into the business affairs of Peltzer.

The assets of the Theodore Peltzer Investment Co., of which Peltzer was the head, will pay all the claims of holders of alleged fraudulent paper, as well as the regular liabilities of the company, according to John M. Cleary, who was Peltzer's attorney and who testified at the inquest regarding duplicate deeds of trust, forged notes and other papers, which he said had been issued by Peltzer. Life insurance carried by Peltzer, Cleary said, is counted on to pay many of the claims against the estate.

Widow Surrenders Insurance.
A statement issued at the office of the investment company said that Mrs. Peltzer, widow of the real estate operator, had waived her claims to all the life insurance exceeding $65,000 in accident policies. The remaining insurance of Peltzer, in several life companies, aggregates $422,000.

The non-appearance of Mrs. Leah Wilson, for the last eight years confidential secretary to Peltzer, when called upon to testify before the Coroner's jury, brought forth the information from her attorney that she was suffering from the ordeal which she had undergone since Peltzer's death and was near a nervous breakdown. A certificate of illness was presented, signed by a physician.

When Cleary took the stand he testified he had known Peltzer for the last 15 years. He said he had been Peltzer's attorney for part of that time. When asked what had been found since Peltzer's death, Cleary said there were evidences of a good deal of fraud, such as forged deeds of trust, forged notes, and legal opinions on titles to which his name had been forged. Cleary said these forgeries probably would amount to $400,000, but that he was not certain.

He was asked whether he knew of creditors' press. Peltzer and if he had not seen him for five or six years previous to his death, but that he knew Peltzer was financially embarrassed.

Enough Assets to Pay Creditors.
Cleary then said that the administrators of Peltzer's estate believed the assets of the investment company would be enough to pay all claims.

Mrs. Laura Eddy, a former employee in Peltzer's office and now employed in a company in which Peltzer was heavily interested, was placed on the stand. Her name has appeared on many of the deeds of trust sold by Peltzer. She stated she had worked in companies in which Peltzer was interested for several years and had been sent to her present employment by him to look after his interests there.

"Did you ever sign deeds of trust for Peltzer?" she was asked.

"I have," was her reply.

"Was there property in your name to represent these deeds of trust?"

"Title of the property had been placed in my name by Mr. Peltzer," she concluded.

Suit for Receiver Filed.
A suit was filed at midnight asking for the appointment of receivers for the Peltzer Investment Co. The suit was filed in the name of Bertha Spiekerman, a widow, who holds $4000 of fraudulent deeds of trust issued by the company.

The suit represents an attempt, according to Frank P. Walsh, one of the attorneys, to unite all claims against the company and all business having to do with the settlement of disbursements Peltzer affairs in one suit. To this end the court was asked to enjoin all directors, administrators and any other officers from bringing other proceedings to interfere in any way with the handling of the matter under one suit in equity, except by intervention in the court in which the suit is brought.

Further, the suit asks the court to call for an accounting of the property and effects of the company. In effect, it is intended to place the settlement entirely out of the hands of the administrators until all debts have been paid.

Mrs. Spiekerman's investment represented all the life insurance she received at her husband's death. The defendants include Jacob Barzen and Harry Troll of St. Louis, who received an assignment of property of the investment company to secure debts, and Miss B. Schwerdtfeger, who represented Troll in taking the assignment of property.

DEMAND FOR PURE MILK FOR BABIES STILL IS HEAVY

Supply Still Necessary to Maintain Health Gains Made in Summer.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged $4787.55

The tide of contributions to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund is on the ebb. What remains to be done in providing relief for the infants in transient district homes, entailed by conditions attaching to poverty, must be from the balance remaining in the fund after payment of the milk and ice bills to Oct. 1.

The account of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission has been liquidated, while the ice bill for August and September are outstanding, not having yet reached the Post-Dispatch. There is on hand more than enough to pay them.

Not sufficient to take care of existing demand upon those two agencies of aid for the babies for an extensive future period.

Chill in the atmosphere will tend to greatly lower the need for ice, but pure milk will be an essential in many homes without interruption. It is not so heavy as in the heated term, but the commission has not since its organization found a time when it could close its doors with a sense of security against demand due to universal robust health among the infantile element of the city's population. Nor is there probability of employment for the breadwinners in all those homes where babies are struggling for a chance to live and thrive during the fall and winter seasons, although the outlook for earnings from work is vastly improved and steadily growing brighter.

The Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund would be drawn upon more or less heavily throughout the year to alleviate distress of positive nature, and genuine pleasure would be found in receiving, acknowledging and disbursing the money if only it were on hand for that purpose, but after a few weeks the account will be exhausted and the Milk Commission and Free Ice and Diet Circle of King's Daughters will have to depend upon other sources for support unless St. Louis elects to materially swell the fund for that purpose.

CONGRESS MAY BE ASKED TO SUPPLY ADDITIONAL REVENUE

Extension of Emergency Tax and Lowering of Income Tax Exemption Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Possibility of the administration asking for additional revenue legislation at the next session of Congress, aside from the temporary retention of the present duty on sugar and extension of the emergency tax law until the end of the European war, was widely discussed here today. Secretary McAdoo, in announcing that legislation on these measures would be recommended, said he was unable to say now what, if any, additional revenue measures might be necessary. More revenue is imperative, he said, in view of prospects of increased appropriations for national defense.

Two measures have been talked of, one an issue of Panama Canal bonds, the other a lowering of the exemption of the income tax law. The latter is regarded as the more likely. Secretary McAdoo having said that a bond issue was not contemplated.

The duty on sugar and the emergency tax bring in about $200,000,000 yearly. Under the law, sugar is to go on the free list May 1, next, and the emergency tax expires by limitation Dec. 31, next.

JOHN D. JR. TELLS MINERS THAT THEY ARE PARTNERS IN BUSINESS

Two Hundred Workmen Hear Speech at Mine at Sunrise, Wyo.—Pastor Admits Conditions are Improved.

SUNRISE, Wyo., Oct. 7.—Two hundred workmen gathered at the bathhouse of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. iron mine here yesterday and listened to a speech by John D. Rockefeller Jr. "We are partners in this business," said Rockefeller, "and neither can get along without the other. We must work together or both will suffer. I remember I am doing everything I can for you. Times are hard just now and the men who have put their money in this enterprise are not making anything, but times will improve and with a better demand for our products, there will be more work and all of us will prosper."

During the day Rockefeller called upon Rev. D. S. McCorkle, who testified before the Industrial Relations Commission in New York criticizing conditions in Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. camps in Colorado and Wyoming. Questioned by Rockefeller, McCorkle said conditions had been improved greatly.

CHICAGO SAID TO BE ASSURED OF REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Reports received in Chicago today from Fred W. Upham, who is on the Pacific Coast, are that he has obtained enough additional pledges from Republican National Committeemen to vote for Chicago as the scene of the next Republican national convention to make the choice of this city virtually unanimous.

The Convention Committee, of which Upham is chairman, has raised funds sufficient to defray the expenses of the gathering.

Dallas, Tex., is a strenuous bidder against Chicago for the Democratic national convention.

POET WHOSE BIRTHDAY A STATE CELEBRATES

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

ELITA PROCTOR OTIS ILL. Actress May Never Appear on the Stage Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Miss Elita Proctor Otis, one of the best of American character actresses, may never appear on the stage again. Emaciated from a two months' siege of neuritis, she is still kept to her bed at the St. Paul Hotel, under the care of a nurse, whose services are paid for out of the Actors' Fund of America.

Despite the large salary Miss Otis has drawn in recent years, her savings have been wiped out by her illness, and the Actors' Fund, to whose benefits she so frequently contributed her services in years past, is now her sole source of support. Her mother, Mrs. J. M. Otis, is with her.

POET RILEY IS 62; ALL INDIANA HELPS HIM TO CELEBRATE

Gov. Ralston, in Proclamation, Had Asked for General Celebration of Birthday.

BUSINESS IS PUT ASIDE

Day Observed in Every City and Town From Capital to Hamlet of "Tailholt."

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—James Whitcomb Riley's sixty-second birthday came today and, just to make it more memorable than any that has preceded it, the entire State joined him in celebrating it.

This year was picked for honoring the poet because the citizens of Indiana wished to pay him tribute while he would be fully able to take part in and enjoy it. In addition to the weight of years, Riley has felt the burden of ill health. He has reached that season of his life "when the frost is on the pumpkin" and the fodder is in the shock, and the State of his birth and life-long residence felt that it didn't want to delay longer the complete and formal expression of its love for him.

A company of 40 singers and musicians entered Lockport street and serenaded the poet at his home at midnight. A large basket of flowers was placed on his doorstep. The serenaders, bearing lighted candles and red torches, marched into Lockport street, tipped to the Riley home and formed a circle around the carriage block. First they played "Love's Old Sweet Song." Soon lights began to appear in the poet's old-fashioned red brick house. Two German folk songs followed and the serenade closed with "Good Night," an old lullaby. Riley sent word that he had enjoyed the serenade. Wishing him a happy night of rest, the serenaders left Lockport street as silently as they had come.

For the last two weeks Riley has been showered with letters and telegrams and poems congratulating him. The poet reads all of them. His happiness over these tributes is patent to all who see him.

"It is so good to be alive," he said yesterday after reading a big stack of the messages. "I try to answer every one of these."

Local newspapers have run columns of poems sent to them expressing the esteem in which Riley is held. Some of these efforts may be poor verse, but they are all alike in the poet's knowledge they are sincere. One local paper devoted its entire front page this morning to a drawing of Riley and an arrangement of some of his most popular verses.

Gov. Samuel M. Ralston recently issued a proclamation asking every community in the State to set aside the day for the honoring of "Indiana's most beloved citizen." His plan was to have business suspended as much as possible. The proclamation is being generally observed in every city, town and village from Indianapolis down to Greenfield, where Riley was born, and Carleton, the tiny hamlet, under the name of Tailholt, the praise of which the poet sang with the lines:

"You kin boast about yer cities, and their stiddy growth and size, And brag about yer county-seats and business enterprise, And railroads and factories and all sich foolery— But the little town o' Tailholt is big enough fer me!"

Greenfield took particular interest in the celebration. Many of its older inhabitants remembered James Whitcomb Riley as a little boy, unknown to the world except as the son of Capt. Reuben Riley, a highly respected citizen. Also it recalled that it is situated on the banks of the Brandwine, the little stream whose joys the poet chronicled in "The Old Swamin' Hole," and of which he had said that, wandering up and down it, he "had more fun to the square inch than ever anywhere."

Gov. Ralston, Mayor Joseph F. Bell, Charles Warren Fairbanks, Meredith Nicholson and George Ade had charge of the celebration in Indianapolis. In order to lend nation-wide interest to it, they invited celebrated persons from over the country to attend. Many accepted.

William Allen White came from Emporia, Kan.; Dr. John H. Finley and Col. George Harvey from New York; Ellery Sedgwick from Boston and Young P. Allison from Louisville, Ky., to help honor Riley.

Proclamation by Governor. The list of Indiana citizens taking part in the celebration is big. In addition to the members of the committee of arrangements, there were former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Senator Kern, Vice President Marshall and others.

The program of the day called for an entertainment in a local theater in the afternoon and a banquet at which Riley was to be the guest of honor in the evening. It was expected that the poet would read a new poem at the banquet.

At the entertainment, several of Riley's poems, including "The Raggedy Man" and "Little Orphan Annie," were set to music by Mr. Ward-Stephens. Dancers from Anna Pavlova's company interpreted a number of the verses.

Hundreds who had hoped to attend the banquet this evening will be disappointed. The committee in charge has been compelled to reject scores of appeals for accommodations as there are seats for but 400. Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks will be toastmaster.

As coming of his birthday in October has a peculiar happiness for Riley, he said the other day. It is his favorite month, as he attests in his poem, "Old October." In it he says: "I love old October so, I can't bear to see her go."

Seems to me like losin' some Old-home relative or chum— 'Pears like sort'a settin' by Some old friend 'at sigh by sigh Was a-passin' out o' sight Into everlastin' night."

James Whitcomb Riley was born at Greenfield, Ind., Oct. 7, 1853, the son of Capt. Reuben A. Riley and Elizabeth Riley. He first began contributions to Indiana papers in 1873. His dialect poems brought him his greatest fame. His first book appeared under the pen-name, "Benj. F. Johnson of Boone." Among his best-known poems are "Little Orphan Annie," "The Raggedy Man," "Leedle Dutch Baby," "The Old Swamin' Hole," "An Old Sweetheart o' Mine," and "How John Quilt the Farm."

His Poems Read in St. Louis Schools and Libraries. Poems of James Whitcomb Riley were read today in some of the St. Louis schools, in observance of the poet's birthday. Although no orders to that effect were given, a number of teachers used Riley poems in the day's reading exercises.

At the Barr Branch Library it was arranged to read "The Raggedy Man" and other Riley verses for the afternoon story-telling period. Riley exercises were also planned at the Central Library.

No mail or phone orders will be taken on any of these. They will be picked up by the early morning shoppers. Note the quantity in each, and shop accordingly.

$500 VERDICT FOR WOMAN WHO SUED MONEY LENDER

She Had Accused John H. Vette of Striking and Biting Her.

A jury at Clayton today awarded $500 actual and $500 punitive damages to Mrs. Tommie Bennett of 4612 Delmar boulevard, in her $500 suit against John H. Vette, a money lender in the Title Guaranty Building. Mrs. Bennett alleged that Vette struck her at his office Feb. 9 last. She was permitted to sue as a poor person. The case was taken to the county on a change of venue.

Mrs. Bennett testified that on the day when she alleges the attack took place she went to Vette's office to ask him how her account stood. Before entering the inner office she talked to an elderly woman who sat in the ante room.

"When she stepped into Vette's office, she said, she accused her of having made slighting remarks about him and his business in the presence of another customer.

Mrs. Bennett testified that Vette struck her, bit her shoulder and forcibly ejected her from the office. Mrs. Louise Page, who accompanied Mrs. Bennett on her visit to the money lender, testified in Mrs. Bennett's behalf. Vette on the witness stand denied that he struck or bit Mrs. Bennett. He said she became excited while talking to him about a loan of $25 which he had made to her in 1913 and which had not been fully repaid. She advanced as if to strike him, he said, and he took her by the hand and led her from the office.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR BACK HURTS, SURELY FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Eating too much meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidneys, irritates the bladder and causes Rheumatism.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, removing all the body's waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids, so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. —ADY.

PRISONER 4 YEARS FOR OFFENSE NOT FORBIDDEN BY LAW

Man Convicted Here of Passing State Bank Notes of 1857 Is Released.

Gross Edison, 53 years old, formerly of 3900A Easton avenue, has been ordered released from the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, after having served more than four years for an offense which, it has just been shown, was not punishable in the Federal courts. An Associated Press dispatch from Kansas City today told of the belated discovery.

Edison was arrested in Mitchell, Ill., in January, 1911, on the charge of preparing and circulating counterfeit $20 bills. The bills figuring in the case were printed for the use of a State bank in Savannah, Ga., in 1857, when state banks were permitted to issue bank notes. Because of a defect in printing, they were rejected after they had been printed on one side, and were perforated as a means of canceling them.

Some of the bills, turned over to Federal officials by persons who said they had taken them as money, showed on examination that they had been pasted back to back, and that the perforations had been obscured by tissue paper. Edison was found in Mitchell by Deputy Marshals, through information obtained from his 19-year-old son, who had been arrested for passing one of the bills in an Olive street pool hall. The Deputy Marshals reported that they found Edison in a box car.

Edison was convicted in the United States District Court here, being prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Gause, now City Counselor of St. Louis. He was sentenced to eight years in prison. At the time of his conviction, the officials stated that Edison had served a term in the penitentiary in Stillwater, Minn., for stealing from freight cars, and that while in prison there he had learned of the location of the old Georgia bills. On his release, he was charged, he obtained the bills.

Recently, according to the Kansas City dispatch, Edison employed a Leavenworth lawyer, who filed a habeas corpus proceeding. The District Attorney's office in Kansas City, Kan., examined the indictment, and it was found that the money involved in the case was not money of the United States. Therefore, it was decided, no Federal law was broken in circulating it. This was made known to Judge Pollock, who ordered the prisoner's release.

DEATH DUE TO GAS POISON

Death of Girl, 18, Says Demise Was Caused by Accident.
Miss Elizabeth Creech, 18 years old, who was found unconscious from gas poisoning Saturday afternoon in the kitchen of her mother's flat, 446A North Market street, died last night at the Ellen Osborn Hospital. Complications caused by the gas poisoning are thought to have been the cause.

An investigation disclosed that the gas escaped from a broken connection with a stove in the kitchen and members of the family declared the girl's condition was due to an accident. Miss Creech was a sister of Mrs. Marie Chapin, 38 years old, whose husband shot and killed himself in the basement of their home, 621A Swan avenue, the night of Aug. 2. Miss Creech was at the Chapin home at the time, but since then had been living with her mother.

GIRL HELD AS A WITNESS

Man Accused Under Mann Act Fails to Appear for Trial.
Miss Bertha Aubuchon, 17 years old, of 267 Olive avenue, who was arrested Sept. 25, with Stephen Grimes, 25 years old, was rearrested last night as a witness against him and placed in charge of the matron at police headquarters. She was held at the House of the Good Shepherd for a few days after her first arrest, but released after she made an affidavit regarding her relations with Grimes, who was charged with violation of the Mann act.

Grimes acted strangely after his arrest and was sent to the observation ward of the city hospital and later released upon $1000 bond. When his case was called for trial in the Federal court yesterday and he did not appear, the rearrest of the girl was ordered.

STATE HAS NO EMERGENCY FUND, IS WITHOUT LIGHT AND HEAT

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 7.—For a week the state house has been without light, heat or elevator service. To provide the first named essential to work for an hour or more each day, and for every hour when nooks and corners are to be penetrated, regulation coal oil lamps and candles have been resorted to. For the other two no substitutes have been found and officials and employees are bound.

The state's light and heat plant broke down last week. It was proposed to obtain current from the Edison Co., pending repairs, and figures to that end were sought. It was found that the probable aggregate cost would be about $800.

No one appeared to object to outlay for temporary electric service, but when those charged with care of the public funds looked into the matter it was discovered that the Legislature had made no provision for such an emergency, consequently the money with which to pay the Edison or any other company did not exist.

Count Reventlow Says Turkey Acts Within Its Rights

AMSTERDAM, via London, Oct. 7. COUNT VON REVENTLOW, minister of the Deutsche Tages Zeitung, referring to the request of the American Government that the German Ambassador at Washington use his influence in behalf of the Armenians in Turkey, says:

"There can be no questions of meddling at the instigation of a third party with the affairs of our Turkish ally. If the Turkish authorities believe it opportune to take vigorous measures against unreliable, bloodthirsty, riotous Armenian elements, it is not only their right, but it is to do so. Turkey can rest assured that Germany will always regard the matter as one concerning Turkey alone."

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Replying to a question by Lord Cromer in the House of Lords, yesterday, the Marquis of Crewe, Lord President of the Council, said that information which had reached the Government in relation to the massacre of Armenians was based mainly on statements from Tiflis. In one district, it was declared, the population had been absolutely exterminated and the most terrible description was given of the condition of the country.

The Government, he continued, had no official information of statements that German consular representatives in Asia had encouraged these horrors, but the statement had been made by an observer from the United States, and he was bound to say that, knowing what had happened elsewhere, there could not be said to be antecedent improbabilities that such was the case.

The Government had not thought, said the Marquis of Crewe, that any advantage would follow from an attempt to make either direct or indirect representations to the Turkish Government on the subject.

Accepts Estimate of 800,000. Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador to the United States, said that such information as had reached him from many quarters showed that the figure of 800,000 Armenians destroyed since May was quite a possible number. Virtually the whole nation had been wiped out, he declared, and he did not suppose that there was any case in history of a crime "so hideous and on so large a scale."

The means for saving the unfortunate remnants of the Armenian people, added Viscount Bryce, was to be found, he believed, in the expression of the opinion of the world, especially of neutral countries, which might possibly exert some influence on the German Government, and induce it to take steps to prevent further massacres.

"The death of these people," said Viscount Bryce, "resulted from the deliberate and premeditated policy of the government now in possession of the Turkish Government. Orders for the massacres came in every case direct from Constantinople. In some instances local Governors, being humane, pious men, refused to carry out the orders, and at least two Governors were summarily dismissed for this reason."

"The customary procedure was to round up the whole of the population of a designated town. A part of the male population was taken into prison and the remainder of the population were marched out of the town and in the suburbs the men were separated from the women and children. The men were then taken to a convenient place and shot or bayoneted. The women and children were then put under a convoy of the lower kind of soldiers and dispatched to some distant destination."

"They were driven by the soldiers day after day. Many fell by the way and many died of hunger, for no provisions were furnished them. They were robbed of all they possessed and in many cases the women were stripped naked and made to continue the march in that condition. Many of the women went mad and threw away their children. The caravan route was marked by a line of corpses. Comparatively few of the people ever reached their destinations."

10,000 Killed in an Afternoon. "The facts as to the slaughter in Trebizond are vouched for by the Italian Consul. Orders came for the murder of all the Armenian Christians in Trebizond. Many Mussulmans tried to save their Christian friends, but the authorities were implacable and hunted out all the Christians and then drove them down to the sea front. Then they put them aboard sailboats and carried them some distance out to sea and threw them overboard. The whole Armenian population, numbering 10,000, was thus destroyed in one afternoon."

The Marquis of Crewe quoted the British Consul at Batoum regarding appalling horrors, which he said had taken place in the district of Sassoun, where the population was absolutely exterminated except for a handful of people, who, escaped to the mountains. There had been a great influx of refugees into the Uratish and Caucasian provinces said the Marquis, and a vast number had arrived in the British district.

"The Consul at Batoum," the Marquis continued, "states that 100,000 refugees passed through Igdir and Erzurum. He gives the most horrible description of their condition ravaged by disease and starving. The death rate among the refugees in one district has been 100 per cent. The Consul praises the efforts made locally to cope with the needs of the refugees, but says much larger quantities of food and medicines are urgently needed. At one place, where 5000 refugees are gathered, it is stated that 50 per cent of them will die unless relief is quickly forthcoming."

Five Instructors at American College at Harpoot Killed. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Further evidence of the atrocities inflicted by the Turks upon the Armenians, especially upon the teachers of the European College, the American college at Harpoot, was given here in a statement by the American committee on Armenian atrocities.

Count Reventlow Says Turkey Acts Within Its Rights

AMSTERDAM, via London, Oct. 7. COUNT VON REVENTLOW, minister of the Deutsche Tages Zeitung, referring to the request of the American Government that the German Ambassador at Washington use his influence in behalf of the Armenians in Turkey, says:

"There can be no questions of meddling at the instigation of a third party with the affairs of our Turkish ally. If the Turkish authorities believe it opportune to take vigorous measures against unreliable, bloodthirsty, riotous Armenian elements, it is not only their right, but it is to do so. Turkey can rest assured that Germany will always regard the matter as one concerning Turkey alone."

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Replying to a question by Lord Cromer in the House of Lords, yesterday, the Marquis of Crewe, Lord President of the Council, said that information which had reached the Government in relation to the massacre of Armenians was based mainly on statements from Tiflis. In one district, it was declared, the population had been absolutely exterminated and the most terrible description was given of the condition of the country.

The Government, he continued, had no official information of statements that German consular representatives in Asia had encouraged these horrors, but the statement had been made by an observer from the United States, and he was bound to say that, knowing what had happened elsewhere, there could not be said to be antecedent improbabilities that such was the case.

The Government had not thought, said the Marquis of Crewe, that any advantage would follow from an attempt to make either direct or indirect representations to the Turkish Government on the subject.

Accepts Estimate of 800,000. Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador to the United States, said that such information as had reached him from many quarters showed that the figure of 800,000 Armenians destroyed since May was quite a possible number. OFFENSIVE ODORS TRACED TO DUPO GARBAGE PLANT

Bad Scents Come From Reduction Works Mile Below City, Officials Discover.

At last the garbage odor has been officially traced to its lair by the municipal sceptor, William Riedinger, and an auxiliary corps of city officials. They resorted to foot marches and automobiles and motor-boat dashes before the big smell was finally surrounded in the garbage reduction plant at Dupont, a mile below St. Louis, on the east bank of the Mississippi River.

Director Street and Sewers Talbert yesterday notified Otto E. Karbe, attorney for the Indiana Reduction Co., that the city's worst suspicions had been confirmed, and that the company must abate offensive odors which have troubled Carondelet for weeks, or lose its contract and bond of $50,000.

Karbe asked Director Talbert to take no steps toward cancellation of the contract until officers of the company at Chicago were given a chance to inspect the plant and consider changes. The city will allow the company about 10 days in which to correct conditions and meanwhile will continue to gather evidence so that it can be used in court if litigation should develop.

Tracing Scat for Month. Sanitary Officer Riedinger has been gathering evidence for a month in St. Louis, the County and on the river. President Kinsey of the Public Service Board and Health Commissioner Starkloff also have been active in gathering evidence, as both live in Carondelet. Director Talbert made several excursions to the South Side when warned of the approach of odoriferous vapors. The olfactory impressions of all were recorded on a chart showing where each stood at the time, and giving the wind direction as reported by the Weather Bureau.

Every time the odor was encountered the wind was coming from the garbage plant. When the wind was the other way, no odor was apparent.

Attorney Karbe has disputed stoutly the charge that the odors emanate from the reduction works. Even when South Side residents reached the mass meeting stage, Karbe would offer to produce affidavits that the plant was not operating at the times when the public and officials detected the odor. He also talked about other odoriferous places in St. Louis County, and said they were probably giving the Dupont garbage plant a bad name.

Kinsey Confirms Report. Director Talbert finally succeeded in witnessing a gas wave creeping across the landscape from the chimneys of the Dupont plant, while on a river trip last Sunday as the guest of Col. C. C. Butler, on the latter's launch. A murky vapor rolled across the river from the plant, Director Talbert says, and he was able to predict a bad smell to others on the launch at the moment when the boat entered the vapor. Talbert learned the next day from President Kinsey that Kinsey smelled the same odor at the same time of day, 4 p. m., out on South Grand avenue.

Karbe, when confronted with this evidence by Director Talbert, did not offer an alibi for the odor of last Sunday.

Woman Kills Alleged Bootlegger. SANDOVAL, Ill., Oct. 7.—Angelo Graciano, 45 years old, was shot and killed by Mrs. Tony Fasula in the kitchen of the Fasula home last evening. Graciano had just recovered from bullet wounds received in a raid on an alleged bootlegging joint at his home two months ago.

Mrs. Fasula is a sister of Giacomo Fanella, who was killed in that raid. Graciano leaves a wife and four children.

Hoodoo Attacks Numeral 11. OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 7.—There is a hope that the hoodoo has transferred its favor from the numeral 13 to 11. On a recent morning every train of that number but one running into this city was late, and the only No. 11 running west from here on the same day was behind time because it had to wait on the late train.

HUSBAND JEALOUS WHEN WIFE'S FRIENDS PRAISE HER TATTOOING

Designs of Easter Lilies on Woman's Body Cause Separation and Divorce Suit.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—When her husband, I. D. Miller, became jealous because her male friends went into raptures over her tattoo marks, Mrs. Mabel Miller returned to her mother.

The most remarkable specimen of tattooing in America is what Mrs. Miller's friends claim for her. The blaring designs of Easter lilies with which she testified her body was covered were attractive to her husband, she said in suing for divorce.

Mrs. Miller testified that it was her husband's own fault if the friends he brought to their flat were overzealous in their admiration of her as an object of art.

ARGENTINA A GOOD FIELD FOR CATTLE BREEDERS OF U. S.

Rich Ranchman Prepared to Pay Fancy Prices for Blooded American Stock.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 15.—The removal of the interdict upon the importation of American cattle into Argentina opens to American breeders a most promising market, that has been monopolized by British breeders heretofore. Already some of the Argentine estancieros, as the owners of great ranches are called, have taken interest in the possibilities of the new conditions, and as a pioneer in the trade, Senor Celendio Pereda, one of the most prominent of the Argentine ranchmen, has gone to the United States to select bulls and other blooded stock for his vast estates.

In view of the phenomenal advance in the prices for livestock in Argentina and the probability that they may reach still greater heights, particularly if the European war continues, it is assumed that the estancieros who seek cattle in the United States will be prepared to pay well for choice stock.

The cattle show at Palermo, which is an annual fixture and which is considered an economic barometer of prosperity in the republic, has just closed, with results that are far more encouraging than could have been expected. It made plain the fact that in whatever other ways the country might be suffering depression, its basic industry—cattle grazing, prospers as never before.

Trade Disturbance Suffered. The Argentine has suffered trade disturbance as a result of the war, and during the last two years the country has been passing through what is called here a "crisis of progress"—the result of lavish expenditure of borrowed capital in national and provincial public works.

But in the face of these adverse conditions, there is the outstanding significant fact that a single champion Durham bull, for instance, has just sold at auction for $30,000 paper (the Argentine paper dollar being equivalent to about 42 cents gold).

The average prices at the Palermo show established many records. The favorite breed in the Argentine is now the Durham shorthorn, of which 200 bulls, making up the first lot put up at the auction, brought a total of $1,140,000 paper, or an average of $5700 a head (about $2515 American gold). And this does not include a 6 per cent commission, which, in this country, is paid by the purchaser.

The Hereford has, it appears, declined in favor, the champion bull of that breed being sold for $12,000 paper—only a fifth of the price paid for the champion Durham.

Polled Angus is Little Favored. The polled Angus, which was deemed the coming breed a few years ago, was in such little favor at Palermo that it was difficult to find a bidder. The champion of this class went for only $4500 paper. The Angus steer, however, is in great demand among the establishments that pack frozen beef. Only recently prices in the ordinary cattle markets went as high as $400 paper for this type of steer—probably a world record.

One outcome of the flourishing state of the grazing industry may be improvements in the Argentine ranches. With the exception of a few localities, grazing is carried on under primitive conditions, with little application of science and expert knowledge.

Argentina is an ideal grazing country, but the natural pasture, except in privileged zones, is very scrubby. Owing to these visible disadvantages lands were sold by the league in the old times, the price being based upon the quantity of stock that could be carried. There are vast extensions, hundreds of thousands of leagues, that are still obtainable at prairie value. The poor settler can do nothing with these lands. He would starve on a league of it if he had not a gun to shoot birds. But the rich syndicate or private investor could, and many do, buy with a view to improvement. When this is done judiciously the results are surprising.

Drouth and Locusts Prevalent. The great enemy of grazing and agriculture in drouth and at present it is keenly felt in Cordoba, the principal alfalfa province, where it is complicated by the locusts, a plague which has cost the republic millions to keep down. It is claimed that the depredations of the voracious insect are not so great as formerly, but just now it is admitted that the damages being caused are very great. The insects come from Bolivia, Brazil and Paraguay. They return to their quarters in those countries after Argentina has spent much money killing a more or less negligible percentage of them and they return in clouds the following season. In regard to drouth the problem is no less complex. The republic is so large and the natural rainfall is so unequally distributed that the trouble is endemic in about nine-tenths of the total area. The various schemes of irrigation have cost enormous sums of money and created only an oasis here and there.

FRENCH WRITER WITHOUT FUNDS FIGHTS EVICTION FROM HOME

Pleads That He Is Entitled to Moratorium as He Visited America for Government.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Julius Bole, a writer, presented an unusual defense in the French Court yesterday, in opposing the granting of an eviction order to his landlord for non-payment of rent. Bole's lawyer pleaded that he was entitled to the benefit of the moratorium, inasmuch as he had been sent to America by the Government, in connection with the French propaganda, and ought, therefore, to be considered as mobilized. The attorney insisted that his client's income from copyrights on books and plays had ceased and also that the seizure of Bole's library was illegal, since books constituted a literary critic's chief stock in trade.

GIRL SERIOUSLY BURNED IN POURING KEROSENE ON FIRE

Her Father Also Injured in Trying to Beat Out Flames in Her Dress.

Miss Nellie Ogden, 23 years old, of 442 Cote Brillante avenue was so badly burned at her home this morning when she tried to quench the kitchen fire with kerosene, that she was taken to the city hospital, where her condition is considered critical. Her father, Benjamin Ogden, was also badly burned in trying to aid her and is at the hospital.

The father had made a fire in the kitchen stove and his daughter had prepared her breakfast when she discovered the fire was dying out. She poured a cup of kerosene into the stove. There was a slight explosion and the flames caught her clothing. She ran, screaming, into the back yard, pursued by her father, who had caught up a rug and was trying to wrap it around her. The excited young woman struck it out of his hands and, in trying then to tear away her burning clothing, the father scorching his hands and singed his face and beard.

Miss Ogden's sister, Mrs. Albert Edwards, 450 Cote Brillante, heard the screams and ran to the Ogden home with blankets. Tyler B. Houck, 446 Cote Brillante, went to their assistance and all of them succeeded in getting the blankets around Miss Ogden and smothering the fire. All were scorched in the rescue.

LOSES LEG IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Boy, 8, Caught Under Wheels of Freight Cars.

Albert Gehring, 8 years old, of 1829A Sullivan avenue, is at the city hospital in a critical condition from injuries received yesterday afternoon when he fell under the wheels of a Wiggins Freight train at Hall and Dock streets. His left leg was crushed so that it had to be amputated at the thigh and his right foot was so badly injured that it may have to be amputated.

The police say that the boy was riding on the train without permission when he lost his hold and fell.

Annual Medical Society Meets Tonight
The annual public meeting of the Medical Society of the City Hospital Alumni will be held at the St. Louis Medical Society Auditorium, 3225 Pine street, tonight. Miss Stanley of the University of Missouri will read a paper on "Practical Dietetics" and Mrs. Emma Irene McLagan will also be on the program.

Political Strategy Exhibited in the Election of Woman's Council How Mrs. Utter Got Office She Wanted

Spirited Pre-Election Campaign Indicated by Close Vote, and Resolution
Prevent Anonymous Electioneering by Mail Is Passed.

By Marguerite Martyn.

THAT women enjoy intricate political problems as well as do men; that they are as quick to grasp critical and strategic situations and accept both defeat and victory with as easy grace, as little excitement and hysteria as the stronger and politically superior sex is supposed to do, was interestingly demonstrated at the annual meeting and election of the Woman's Council yesterday.

This vigorous young organization now has some 37 club presidents as members, who, in turn, represent more than 5000 women. That it has come into being within the last year and a half speaks intense vitality and interest with in the organization.

That a lively and even bitterly fought campaign of behalf of certain candidates has gone on for months, was well enough known among club women and that intensity of feeling with regard to who should be the next president did not subside until the vote was actually cast, was shown by the evenness with which the result was divided, 54 for Mrs. Cleaver and 48 for Mrs. Mechin.

Loser Joked About Defeat.

WONDER if Mrs. Mechin's stylish new autumn costume of black and white crepe blouse, jaunty velvet turban and black broadcloth suit, as opposed to that of Mrs. Cleaver's, who came up from Carondelet prepared for comfort in white plique and season-old Panama hat, may have been the deciding factor among doubtful and un-instructed delegates at the last moment!

Be that as it may, there never was a more graceful loser than Mrs. Cleaver. Her cohorts grouped about her looked crestfallen as they removed their "cleaver" badges, but the vanquished candidate was ready to joke about it. Once Mrs. Utter referred some matter of dispute to Mrs. Cleaver and the defeated one responded, "Don't bother me. I have troubles of my own." But she was with only mock seriousness she said it.

Of course we didn't know at that time that the minority leader was to be "taken care of" by the candidate maker—not given a secretary-of-estate position.

MRS. G. V. R. MECHIN.

or an ambassadorship, but made head of the Civic Committee, regarded as next to the Way and Means Committee the most important portfolio in the president's cabinet.

Some Political Maneuvers.

THE women lent themselves to some interesting trading and shifting in the ticket and rearrangement of the chair, when they got out of the office, when the called for nominations for the civic head, but when it became apparent that Mrs. Cleaver was being saved for the office she was given an overwhelming majority.

Another bit of interesting legislation was when, after almost every other office was disposed of, the chairman of Ways and Means was called for. Mrs. Oppenheimer was the favorite candidate on the official ballot. An attempt was being made to run Mrs. Charles Stix as a "dark horse." Mrs. Stix was not present and Oppenheimer supporters were quick to announce that Mrs. Stix had declared she would not serve. Stix supporters admitted this, but continued to support her and the decision was close. Mrs. Oppenheimer receiving only six votes more than Mrs. Stix. Just why so many voters and the chair should seem to desire the election of Mrs. Stix when it was admitted she would resign may not have been transparent to the uninitiated.

There were about 150 delegates and a great crowd of spectators in the banquet hall of the American Annex and a full retinue of messengers, pages, tellers and sergeants-at-arms evidently had been well drilled, for the order of business, interspersed with a program of addresses, luncheon and music, went forward with remarkable dispatch, bespeaking a well-oiled machine somewhere.

Steam Roller Methods.

MRS. UTTER, the retiring president of the Council, notably outspoken against bossism and bosses in women's public affairs, some of whom she identified publicly a few weeks ago, certainly made use of some steam roller methods yesterday and with frankness admitted the charge. No opposing angle escaped her alert, concentrated attention, her ready gavel, quick decisions and arbitrary rulings, with the retort, "If you don't like it, appeal," were so scarifying at times that there was scarcely a woman bold enough to openly protest. But her frank acknowledgment of her tactics seemed to inspire the utmost confidence in her oft-repeated profession of democracy.

One tense and embarrassing moment there was for the Chair when Mrs. Utter, of the Windermere Hotel, objected to the motion to close the nominations for second vice president with only one candidate, and that Mrs. Utter. But the objection lasted only an instant. Mrs. A. V. L. Brokaw, who flagged an attempt to run Mrs. Utter as a "dark horse" for president, said: "Our president did the manly thing in the womanly way by stating which office she desired, that being second vice, where she can serve at membership extension," quickly arose, and with a little parliamentarianism, saved the occasion again, and Mrs. Utter was elected to the position she desired with a return that might as well have been unanimous.

Chair Defends Electioneering.

ANOTHER ripple upon the surface that indicated where deep disturbance had been, was the action in regard to anonymous electioneering by mail. The whole matter of anonymous letters upon whatever provocation was vigorously condemned and a resolution passed consigning all such communications to the waste basket "where they belong." But the retiring president, ever mindful of her principle of democracy, not alone when it comes to a decision in favor of the greatest good for the greatest number, but when it comes to the recognition of the voice of each individual could find an apology even for anonymous letter writers.

"With your resolution you have but taken another step in evolution," she said. "The electioneers were striving after democracy, to express an opinion in government. They merely had not got so far as to be able to differentiate between proper and improper methods."

GETS VERDICT OF $25 FOR 14 HENS KILLED BY DOGS

Owner in Petition Had Asked for $50, Estimated Number of Eggs He Might Have Received.

A jury in Justice Gorman's court yesterday afternoon awarded $25 damages to Gustav Holzborn of 157 St. George street, in his suit against Mayer Goffstein, a grocer of 145 St. George street, to recover the value of 14 hens and a rooster which were killed by Goffstein's two dogs May 28 last.

In his petition Holzborn asked for $35.50 actual and $25 punitive damages. He also filed an estimate of the value of the eggs which might have been laid by his 14 hens if they had not been killed. He figured that in June, July and August the hens would have laid 320 eggs, which, at an average price of 20 cents a dozen, would have yielded a gross return of $12.40. Deducting the cost of feeding the hens, he figured that his net return from the eggs would have been $10.23.

Holzborn testified that he was awakened at 4 a. m. on the day of the tragedy and found Goffstein's dogs in his yard. Twelve chickens were dead and three were so badly hurt they died the next day.

Holzborn's grandmother, Mrs. Lena Holzborn, 70 years old, testified that Goffstein promised to pay for the chickens. This was denied by Goffstein, who said on the witness stand that he did not know the chickens had been killed until notice of the suit was served on him.

Goffstein's daughter, Miss Mollie Goffstein, testified that before going to bed, about 10 p. m., May 27, she locked the dogs in the store. She was unable to say how they got out. Goffstein filed notice of an appeal to the Circuit Court. The costs in the case were assessed against Goffstein. They amounted to $21, almost the estimated value of the slaughtered chickens.

No testimony was given as to Holzborn's estimate of the egg-producing probabilities if his hens had lived.

"ROOKIES" FIGHT MOSQUITOES

Warms of Insects Infest Fort Sheridan Citizens' Camp.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The 500 civilians taking the course of military instruction at the Fort Sheridan training camp were fighting an enemy, the mosquito, today.

Huge swarms of the insects have infested the camp the last two days and marred the uniformity of the battalions' parades, because swarming the mosquitoes became essential. The citizen soldiers were supplied with bottles of oil with which to bathe their hands and faces as a means for driving the mosquitoes away.

Soundproof Concert Room.

The second floor is devoted to chemistry, botany, physics, the library and business instruction rooms. Each desk in the physics department has a compressed air jet, something not yet provided in other high schools in the city.

Washed Air Supplied.

The structure is heated by steam, and washed air supplied to each room by a ventilating system which is planned to keep the temperature at 70 degrees Fahrenheit at all times. Vacuum cleaning pipes run to each room—an innovation in the high schools.

The basement is given over to the machine shops, locker rooms, a swimming pool, domestic science rooms, and power plant. The shops are the only ones in the city schools which have a separate electric motor for each machine. These rooms are made soundproof by brick walls. The dining room is fitted in cafeteria style, and can seat almost 500 pupils.

The general offices, class-rooms, gymnasium and auditorium are on the first floor.

Each class room is limited to 48 pupils, instead of the 75 or 100 in the majority of schools. The gymnasium is provided with a dividing wall which enables both boys and girls to exercise at the same time.

The auditorium seats 2000 persons and the lower floor seats can be removed so that the space may be used for games. The balcony extends from the second to the third floor, and may be reached from both levels without climbing additional stairs. The stage will seat 600, and is provided with a steel fire curtain nine inches thick, which cost about $3000.

GROVER CLEVELAND SCHOOL BUILDING FORMALLY OPENED

Several Thousand Persons Attend Exercises at New $650,000 Structure.

The formal public opening of the $650,000 Grover Cleveland High School, at Virginia avenue and Osceola street, was attended last night by several thousand persons who examined what the School Board says is one of the most advanced buildings of its kind in the United States. The building was opened for school purposes on Sept. 7.

The structure, designed by William B. Ittner, is the largest high school in the city, and has accommodations for about 1800 students. There are three floors besides the basement, and 50 rooms. The building is of a modified Tudor-Gothic style, with reddish-brown brick walls, and is considered fireproof. The interior finish is oak, and all concrete walls are painted a light yellow.

Supt. Blewett and others made addresses in the auditorium during the evening, and H. P. Hoch, the principal, with his corps of teachers, guided visitors about the building. A school chorus of 550 mixed voices sang.

Every convenience for students and teachers has been provided. There is an emergency room for the former in case of illness and separate retiring rooms for the latter. The stairways are divided by rails so that students may ascend and descend without interfering with each other's progress. There are so many stairways that any part of the building may be reached from any other point within three minutes.

Washed Air Supplied.

The structure is heated by steam, and washed air supplied to each room by a ventilating system which is planned to keep the temperature at 70 degrees Fahrenheit at all times. Vacuum cleaning pipes run to each room—an innovation in the high schools.

The basement is given over to the machine shops, locker rooms, a swimming pool, domestic science rooms, and power plant. The shops are the only ones in the city schools which have a separate electric motor for each machine. These rooms are made soundproof by brick walls. The dining room is fitted in cafeteria style, and can seat almost 500 pupils.

5 MORE CASES OF DIPHTHERIA FOUND IN WALNUT PARK

Conditions as to Disease in Other Parts of City Are Reported to Be Normal.

Five more cases of diphtheria in the Walnut Park district of northwest St. Louis were reported to the Health Department today. One of these developed at a Lutheran parochial school at Gilmore and Harney avenues, and physicians were sent there to examine the 200 pupils.

As a result of the examination of about 1100 pupils of the Walnut Park public school yesterday, 11 children were found to have diphtheria symptoms. In this district 32 cases of the disease have been reported in about three weeks.

Conditions as to diphtheria in other parts of the city are said by Health Department physicians to be normal.

The building has three front entrances and two others on each side. The halls are about twenty feet wide, and each door opening into them is paneled with glass to provide as much natural light as possible.

SURGEON QUILTS WAR WORK

American, Formerly With Austrians,
Says Faces of Men Haunted Him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Dr. John R. Oliver, son of Robert S. Oliver of Albany, N. Y., formerly Assistant Secretary of War, who arrived yesterday after serving for several months as a regimental surgeon in the Austrian army, said today that his return was made necessary by a nervous breakdown. He attributed this to the strain of the responsibility in deciding whether convalescent Austrian soldiers must return to the fighting lines or be sent to their homes. He said the faces of men he sent back to the front haunted him.

Snowfoot

A story wherein milady's favorite horse begins a romance for her, and, as well brings it to happy conclusion.

By Charles Graham Ross.

"FIFTY." "Do you hear? Fifty, bid. Do I hear five? All right, sir. And seventy. Seventy-five? Thanks. Last chance, gentlemen. Seventy-five once, twice!"

"I withdraw the horse—I'll pay the selling fee." Walter Elston, idly engrossed in watching a conventional country horse auction scene, fixed his eye upon the last speaker. Something in the sad, drooping face, the half-broken utterance, as if the man was in sorrow or pain, awakened his sympathetic nature.

He stood silent and watchful, deeply interested, as from an old, time-worn wallet, the owner of the horse drew out the one bill it contained, evidently his last, and with a sigh handed it to the auctioneer.

"Sorry, Mr. Young," spoke the latter.

"But this is an off day, it seems. Bring Snowfoot around next sales day and we'll try it without extra charge. Your price is pretty steep, but the animal is worth it."

"Yes, I can't possibly do with less than $150," spoke Mr. Young in a subdued tone. "It's a matter of life and death."

Elston buys Snowfoot.

YOUNG ELSTON followed the last speaker as the horse loosely looped over his arm, he walked slowly away from the hawking crowd. At the road Elston, after a rapid glance over the splendid animal, stepped up to him. The fine points of the horse attracted him. Then again, he traced some deep soul tragedy under the words he had overheard.

"Excuse me," he said, in an offhand manner, but courteously. "I didn't get a chance to bid on your horse. What's the price, sir?"

"Seventy-five was the top bid," answered the old man, but "I want double."

"Double?" questioned Elston, examining the teeth of the animal.

"Gentle as a kitten, with one who knows his temper—whirlwind under a wicked whip lash. My daughter's horse, sir, but we've got to part with him! It is the price of her mother's life. An operation of death, the doctor says, and they won't move without the money in advance."

"I'll take Snowfoot," announced Elston quietly.

An expression of relief, gratitude, joy, crossed the face of Robert Young, as the crisp bank notes were counted into his trembling hand. His tears fell upon them. He tried to thank Elston, just managed to ask his name, and hurried away as though a new life was giving him wings.

"A girl for your owner, eh?" chattered Elston lightly to Snowfoot. "Then we'll treat you gently, my friend, and Snowfoot seemed to accept the words as a guarantee of good faith and went along the road giving Elston no trouble. Snowfoot Disappears.

AT a cross path, however, his steps grew halt. He extended his forelegs down its shaded length. Snowfoot was saying farewell to old familiar scenes.

"Off his feed," the hostler at the Elston place told its master the next day. "Off himself!" was the report next day.

Snowfoot had pressed out one end of the stable, too intelligent to arouse suspicion by kicking his way out. A search in the neighborhood revealed no trace of the missing animal.

"Snowfoot got home and has gone of his young mistress," decided Elston naturally.

Then he shrugged his shoulders significantly. Snowfoot was his property, acquired by legal purchase, but Elston's fancy was pleased to imagine the delight of this unknown Miss Young over the return of her cherished pet.

"You need search no further," he told the hostler. "I think I know where to find the animal." He was right.

His impulse was strong to allow Miss Young to retain possession of Snowfoot, but sentiment kept this unknown young lady in his mind all the morning. What was she like? What would her action be when she reasoned out that Snowfoot was a truant?

Elston tried to deceive himself with the idea that he was going to simply take a spin down the river road in the pony phaeton, when in reality he had the town in view 15 miles distant when he had purchased Snowfoot. He knew DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS. If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means, get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to "solve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

Mr. Young lived somewhere in its vicinity. Just as he was starting out, his only relative in the world, little Artie, his brother, ran out and insisted on joining him. The tiny lad was the idol of Elston's soul.

"Jump in," he ordered, and the eager juvenile was promptly at his side.

The Pony Runs Away. JUST where the road turned, the wife of a man who had been doing some work at the Elston place halted. Its master. She explained that her husband had sustained a bad fall, was in bed and would be glad to have a word with him.

Elston went into the house, leaving little Artie in the phaeton, with a warning to hold the lines steady.

Five minutes later, when he came out of the house, Elston uttered a cry of alarm and broke into a run. He saw the phaeton 200 yards away, just ascending the incline that led to the old condemned wooden bridge. Little Artie was tugging at the lines vigorously, but the pony refused to halt or turn.

Then suddenly a quick gasp of alarm parted Elston's lips. The pony had the front hoofs sink through a rotten plank.

It spilled out the little driver. With a groan of agony Elston saw his brother so shooting through a break in the plank 20 feet down into the water below.

It was a steep descent at the banks near to the bridge, but down the incline Elston flew, rather than sped. Then he lost his footing, his head struck a sharp rock, and, with one last view of Artie being borne swiftly down the stream, Elston lost consciousness.

It was 15 minutes later when Elston roused up. He ran hatless down the stream, in anguished distress scanning its surface.

"Too late!" his bloodless lips repeated. "Oh, Arthur! Arthur!"

Turning a bend, he made out a figure, that of a fair young girl in dripping, clinging garments, standing near a little cove. Beneath a tree near by, a horse, panting and waterflecked, in stantly Elston recognized the animal—it was Snowfoot.

The girl ran towards him, her face colorless, her eyes filled with an intense anxiety.

"You are the doctor?" she cried, seizing his arm impetuously. "Come quick! I have done all I could for the little fellow, but I hailed a man to hurry after your father."

"My brother," cried Elston, looking beyond her and observing a little silent form outstretched on the green sward. Then he was on his knees beside the limp figure, uttering his ardent delight as he noted that Artie was breathing regularly, although with closed eyes and pallid face.

The doctor sent for arrived a few minutes later. Artie had been rescued from the river just in time, and it was Snowfoot, urged into the stream by the young lady, who had borne both back to the shore in safety.

And then, embarrassed, but with some coherence as to the situation now, Miss Edith Young explained that her desire to return the truant Snowfoot had brought her to the scene of the accident just in time.

"You must take Snowfoot as a glad gift," insisted Elston, when Miss Young spoke of returning home.

"You must take my lonely self and little Artie, who talks of you all day long," he added, after a month of closer acquaintance, and Edith could not say him nay.

Horse Sense

How to Pack a Trunk.

M. FIDGETS was carrying an armful of clothes, coats, trousers, clean shirts and soiled ones, mixed in wildest confusion, while from one hand dangled a muddy pair of tan shoes.

He threw his burden on the bed and the shoes naturally landed on top of his best dress shirt.

"What's the matter?" he inquired in surprise as his wife expostulated.

"Matter?" replied Mrs. Fidgets. "Matter enough and to spare, I should think! You've got everything so mixed up I don't know what I've packed and what I haven't."

"You told me to bring all my clothes out of the closet and I brought them," said Mr. Fidgets indignantly. "I thought all the time that it was a fool way to pack, but I was too courteous to say so. Now, if you'll stop fussing for five minutes, let me use a little horse sense about it and we will get everything packed in a jiffy."

"What will you do?" inquired Mrs. Fidgets, curiosity getting the better of her temper. "A commercial traveler once told me," said her husband, "that to pack a trunk in a hurry without forgetting anything, all you have to do is to begin at the feet and work up."

"A trunk hasn't any feet," said Mr. Fidgets. "Your own feet," said Mr. Fidgets. "I mean my feet. The idea is this: First you think of the needs of the feet as shoes, socks, etc. Then you start upward. That brings you to underwear, shirts, and, last of all, collars and neckties. Add night gear and a cake of soap. Determine the particular articles of each sort you want to take and how many. Get them all together and check them up to see that nothing has been omitted. In that way it's impossible to forget anything."

"In the bottom of the trunk," he continued, still anxious to impart information, "you place all the heaviest things or those last to be needed. Fold each garment flat and press it down well. Lay the coats flat on their backs, straighten out the fronts and pull one side slightly over the other. Bring the sleeves over the front of the coat a little from the elbows down and fold the coat once at the waist line if necessary. Pack bottles in shoes."

"That won't work," said Mrs. Fidgets. "A bottle of hair tonic just spoiled my white buckskin pumps last summer. But the idea of thinking from the feet up is not so bad."

"It's simply great," said Mr. Fidgets enthusiastically. "I'm going to patent it."

"Why, I thought you said it belonged to another man?"

"Oh, well," replied Mr. Fidgets flippantly, "he probably borrowed it from somebody else."

The King's Choice

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

KING RUPERT lived in a palace of gold, and had all that money could give, but he was the most unhappy man in his whole kingdom. Years ago his beautiful Queen and little son had taken a walk in the forest one evening and had never been seen again.

The King was growing old now, and, as he had no heir to his throne, he thought he would choose one among his subjects. He knew very well that before him, as their King, each man would promise to make the best ruler, so the wise King thought of a plan by which he could judge their hearts. The King, dressed as a poor beggar, went through his kingdom. First he came to the Lord Chamberlain's palace and knocked gently at the door. His lordship was very busy counting out his money and could not be disturbed by beggars at the gate. With his message the proud slave gave his majesty a kick, which sent him tumbling into the highway.

The good King, somewhat disheartened by such treatment, started again on his journey. He went from door to door, begging bread and water, but all he received were rude kicks and ugly words.

THE King spent weeks and weeks trying to find a person whose heart was worthy of the crown, but as yet he had not found one. Finally, heart sick and discouraged, he stopped at a woodcutter's house in a lonely forest. The young woodcutter was busy, but as soon as he saw the old man coming he threw down his axe and came to meet him. The King asked him for some bread and a cup of water, as he had traveled a long way and was very hungry and thirsty. The young man at once took him into his house and shared with him the food of his supper. The beggar King noticed as he came into the house a poor woman sitting by the fire weeping bitterly. His kind heart was touched by the sad sight and he asked the woodcutter the cause of her sorrow.

"Some spell has been cast upon her," said the young man sorrowfully. "For 20 years she has wept and not a word can she speak." The King listened with great interest, as the youth placed him. "I would that I had the magic ring," continued the woodcutter, "that rests on our great King's finger, for that alone can break the spell his enemy the Gnome has placed upon her."

THE King waited to hear no more, but threw off his beggar rags and stood before the woodcutter in royal robes. "This is yours," said the King, taking the ring from his finger, "and more you have shown kindness to even a beggar, and therefore shall wear my crown. The young man could hardly believe his ears. Like someone in a dream he took from his majesty the much-longed-for ring, and, rushing up to his poor mother, placed it on her trembling hand. Instantly the spell was broken and her weeping was changed to words of joy and love. She fell at the feet of the King to thank him for his great kindness, but what was his astonishment and delight as he gazed into the beautiful face to find this was his lost Queen and the young woodcutter his long-lost son.

The Cause and Cure of Fever.

IT is indeed fortunate that nature, while apparently indifferent to us, her children, leaving us to prey to terrible diseases, produces in our own blood antidotes or antitoxins which help us to overcome the germs which attack us.

It is a constant wonder why only about one out of every five persons who are exposed to a disease take it, and the reason is that in order to contract any disease one's vitality and resistance must be considerably weakened or lowered, by exposure to cold or wet, and by fatigue or worry.

Now various things will weaken our resistance. It may be done by overwork, or being underfed, or by exposure to cold or wet, and by fatigue or worry.

When the germ of an infectious disease—any one of the familiar fevers—gains entrance into our blood, what really takes place in the body?

First of all things, the invading germs begin to multiply until in an incredibly short time there are millions at work. This work is to manufacture a poison—quite peculiar to that special germ—and this poison, or toxin as it is called, produces the symptoms familiar in a fever.

And so in reality a fever is merely the effects produced by the poisons that these invaders are continually pouring into our blood. From the very first the body resents the intrusion of this enemy. Constantly floating through our blood are two kinds of tiny cells called the red and the white corpuscles, and it is the function of the white ones to fight our battles for us. They at once mobilize their forces, as we were, and begin to attack the invading germs, but as the enemy multiply themselves and their poisons at an almost unthinkable rate, the battle is a hard one.

Many germs are killed by the white cells; at times it seems as though the white soldiers had nearly won, and then again more toxin will be poured into the blood, and we say the patient "has a relapse."

Now, during all this time the white cells, besides destroying millions of the enemy, have, in addition, been making an ever-increasing product—an antidote—and if the body is strong enough to endure this conflict, upon this antitoxin depends the victory.

By a strange paradox this product does not aim to kill the germs, but it neutralizes them and their poison, rendering both harmless to ourselves.

Thus it is that we say, "the fever has run its course"—has reached its crisis. This may be from 14 to 21 to 28 days, and even longer time.

All this conflict means that when the crisis of a fever is reached and we begin to recover, we do so by virtue of sufficient antitoxins having been made by our blood, and our body has really cured itself.

It has been claimed, and proven too, that patients can and do recover from attacks of fever without medical aid, but few of us choose to try the experiment.

While these protective antitoxins are always present in our blood, the entrance of a disease germ is the signal for more and more to be made by the white corpuscles. There are millions and millions of white corpuscles in our blood, and the spleen is at present supposed—after years of vague speculation as to its real use—to be the place where they are made.

Sandman story of how by accident His Majesty finds his long-lost Queen and the little Prince.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

MANY a young German has sighed with envy as he thought of the luck of Baron Gustav Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach, president of the council of the trustees of Krupp's, the world's greatest armament works; for "Taffy" von Bohlen, as he is known by his intimates, is indeed a lucky man. A humble member of the diplomatic service, he became a millionaire several times over through his marriage in 1891 to Bertha Krupp, to whom was left in 1903 by her father, Friedrich Alfred Krupp, the great works at Essen, which as a company had been floated with a capital of $45,000,000, the shares being mainly held by members of the Krupp family.

By the irony of circumstances the head of the firm which has supplied the world with death-dealing weapons was born at The Hague, where men have met so many times to discuss world peace. Ultimately he entered the diplomatic service and it was while he was secretary to the Prussian legation at the Vatican that he made the acquaintance of Fraulein Bertha Krupp, mistress of millions.

Bertha Krupp had gone to the Italian capital for a holiday, and there she met the gay and much-courted "Taffy," who was a prominent figure in society at Rome. Apparently it was a case of both sides of love at first sight, and the marriage up to the present seems to have been a very happy one.

Curiously enough, the head of Krupp's is in no sense a fire eater. Rather he is a man of peace and thinks more of tennis, golf and his collection of Chinese porcelain, rugs and curios than of machine guns and 16-inch howitzers. At the same time, like all Germans, he has had a military training, and being much honored by the Kaiser, has imbued many of the German Emperor's characteristics.

At the centenary celebration in 1910, commemorating the foundation of the Krupp works in 1810 by the original Friedrich Krupp, the Kaiser conferred upon Baron von Bohlen the Order of the Red Eagle and made him a Baron in his own right, as a recognition of, and reward for his splendid work among the employees of the innumerable Krupp enterprises.

Defense at Bar Harbor. BAR HARBOR, Me., is fearfully and wonderfully protected. In Spanish war times its residents protested against the danger and the humorous War Department sent them four antiquated muzzle-loading cannons, relics of the Civil War. The much-relieved summer folks took the cannon to their hearts with all sincerity, however, and posted them at excellent points of vantage, where they may still be seen and smiled at.

Betty Vincent's Advice.

Introductions Always!

NOT infrequently I receive letters from girls and young men asking if in certain special circumstances they may not speak to each other without an introduction. They usually explain that they are meeting each other daily, on the way to and from business, and that they know no mutual friends. Undoubtedly there is a temptation to many young persons to make such acquaintances. But it is a temptation which must be resisted. In some BETTY VINCENT cases, perhaps, no actual harm would result from such an informal friendship, but the risk is too great. The only safe rule is, "Introductions always!"

"H. N." writes: "My daughter, who is 15, has been going to an ice cream parlor with a boy three years older than herself, but she despised because some of his brothers and sisters did not wish him to continue the acquaintance. Is it all right for my daughter to go and see a girl friend of hers who lives in the same house as the boy's sister, whom he visits? Should my daughter accept or avoid his greeting?"

"C. S." writes: "Every now and then a friend of mine tells me she is angry with me. Though I am freely forgiven, I am never told the cause of her anger. What shall I do?"

"B. S." writes: "I took a young lady to an entertainment and a young man joined us, introducing himself. A few minutes later, in my presence, the girl gave the young man her ring at his request. Was this proper?"

"E. M." writes: "I am 21 years old, the heir of a wealthy father and in love with a widow 10 years older than myself. Do you think she really cares for me or is she after my money?"

"You don't have to consider that question but merely to recognize the folly of marrying a woman so many years your senior."

MORGAN STREET CONSIDERED FOR AN AUTO HIGHWAY

Wellston Tracks Would Be Removed and Thoroughfare Paved From Broadway to Grand.

A plan to remove the eastbound track of the Wellston line from Morgan street and to make that street, from Broadway to Grand avenue, a new automobile highway, is being considered by the City Board of Public Service, and probably will be made the subject of a conference with officials of the United Railways Co.

This plan, according to city officials, would do away with the necessity of widening Washington avenue, at an expense of $1,000,000 or more, and also would clear Locust street west of Twelfth street, of the tracks of the Wellston line, which now present a constant danger to automobile traffic at the Thirteenth street curve. The plan is that the eastbound Wellston cars shall be routed over the Hodiamont line from Garrison avenue where a side track now crosses the Hodiamont tracks. The Hodiamont cars would be re-routed from Twelfth and Locust streets north and west to a connection with the present Hodiamont line. The present Hodiamont line right-of-way, north of Washington avenue near Thirteenth street, would be made a vehicle cut-off.

Morgan street would be cleared of rails, and re-surfaced with asphalt, and it is believed that it would help to relieve Locust street of traffic congestion.

Another plan being considered by the Board is to consolidate the Seventh street and Natural Bridge lines, so as to do away with their present downtown loops, and make a continuous run. Other plans for straightening out loops are under consideration.

The late Capt. Robert McCulloch, who was president of the United Railways, is said, shortly before his death last year, to have promised city officials that he would agree to any feasible plan to straighten and simplify the downtown part of the Hodiamont route, and to relieve the situation at Thirteenth and Locust streets.

SYMPHONY MAY ENJOIN MARTIN

Society Claims Contract With Tenor Limits His Appearance Here.
The St. Louis Symphony Society will try to prevent the appearance here next week of Ricardo Martin, the tenor, with the Boston Grand Opera Co., upon the ground that the Symphony has a contract with Martin for two appearances later in the season and that the contract contains a clause that he will not take part in a public performance here before appearing with the Symphony Orchestra.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Symphony Society yesterday, a committee was appointed to ask the opera management to withdraw Martin. If it refuses an injunction may be asked.

The court refused to grant his application for citizenship because he voted, knowing himself to be an alien. Hecht has been a resident of Peoria for 40 years.

GRAHAM-WHITE WASN'T SHOT

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Claude Graham-White hasn't been shot, he told a Post-Dispatch representative today.
"I don't know where the rumors about me started," he said, "but to put an end to them here I recently went to the press association in person. I am overwhelmed with work, making aeroplanes, which is the reason that I gave up flying temporarily."
At the time of the last Zeppelin raid on London rumors started that Graham-White had been shot in the Tower of London as a spy. They were based on the fact that he is no longer in the flying corps.

WOMEN EXPLORERS FIND ODD TRIBE IN SIBERIAN WILDS

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The last members of the Siberian expedition promoted by the Oxford University's school of anthropology and the Philadelphia University Museum have returned to London with a rich collection of material and new information about a strange region.

Miss M. A. Chaplicka, a native of Russian Poland, was the leader of the party, assisted by H. A. Hull of Philadelphia as ethnologist, Miss Curia, an artist, and Miss Haviland, an ornithologist.

They set out from London year ago last May. The most curious tribe met in their travels was the Tungus, a primitive nomad people of the Mongolian type who live apart to themselves, have only vague notions about the Russians and the Czar and no system of writing. They live in wigwams and have no occupation other than the breeding of reindeer and the hunting of foxes. Their religion is a belief in good and evil spirits.

A large collection of costumes, weapons, implements and copper and iron ornaments were brought home by the expedition.

BALKANS LOST CONFIDENCE IN ALLIED ARMIES

Strength of Entente Powers Gauged by Their Lack of Success Against Turks.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 15.—Since the outbreak of the European war there have developed in Bulgaria two political camps, whose cleavage was not due so much to internal political differences as to their tendencies toward one of the belligerent groups. The men who support the Premier, Dr. Radostavoff, have on the whole been Germanophile, while the followers of former Premier Guechoff, of Danef, Malloff and Ghenadieff, have shown so strong a tendency toward the entente that their opponents have accused them at times of being more Russian than Bulgarian.

The Bulgarian army is being made ready for service in the field. The Macedonian legion and other reserves have been called to the colors and last week about 100 new officers were added, 408 being graduates of the military academy and about 1200 young men whose educational qualifications entitled them to a commission in the reserves forces.

It may be admitted that the Russophiles of Bulgaria have had very poor ground to work upon. Bulgaria, so admit even they, was robbed of the fruits of the war against Turkey by Russia favoring Serbia and Greece in the division of Macedonia and by permitting Rumania afterwards to despoil Bulgaria of the Dobroja district, a territory whose production in agriculture wealth is one-fifth of the whole of Bulgaria, and whose loss was greater to the country than the gain made in Macedonia and Thrace.

A Clean-Cut Issue.
Bulgaria's attitude is no longer an enigma. The Balkan situation has become a clean-cut issue. Bulgaria wants and purposes to get all Macedonia and the Dobroja. Her demands on Thrace already have been satisfied by Turkey. That the entente will lose the support of the solid "bloc balkanique" is admitted by the entente diplomatic agents here. These men have been badly handicapped by results of the Balcavet treaty. They have been obliged to appeal to Bulgarian sentiment rather than to Bulgarian race, especially since last May. But being a mountain people, shrewd and calculating, and having still in mind what they look upon as their abandonment to the Serbs and Greeks by Russia and the other European Powers, Bulgarians have said:

"Give us Macedonia and return the Dobroja to us."

Since the greater part of Macedonia is held by an ally of the entente, while Greece and Rumania had to be looked upon as prospective allies of the same group, Russian, French and British representatives could not do much.

Feasible military developments in the Balkans will be cannot be forecast at this time. Bulgaria's program of action depends upon the conduct of her neighbors. It seems certain, however, that the Bulgarian army will move to occupy Macedonia shortly after the new offensive which the Germans and Austrians are said to be planning.

The cutting of all communication with Greece and the outside world would be the first task of the Bulgarian army. The railroad line to Saloniki is exposed to attack in many places, and Serbia, wishing to defend it, would have to draw more men from the Austro-Hungarian border than she could afford. Under an attack of that sort the Serbian army would hold its ground for about three weeks, it is thought here, and then the road to Constantinople would be free to the Germans.

The position of Rumania, it is pointed out, would not be much better. Pressure from the north by forces of the central Powers would prevent the Rumanian army from doing more than act on the defensive along the Danube and Dobroja border.

In the south, conditions are different. In addition to expecting a clash with the Greek armies, the Bulgarians must count upon the possible landing of some allied forces. But it is argued that a quick conquest of Serbia would discount much of this danger, since it would then be possible to hurry German and Austrian troops to the assistance of the Bulgarians. Turkish troops also would be rushed to the scene.

Fear Inspired by Terrors.
In the Balkans, where the power of Russia is fully understood and in some quarters even greatly exaggerated, the success of the German and the Austro-Hungarian troops has inspired fear and where not this, respect. The lack of success of the allies in their campaign against the Turks has, on the other hand, undermined what confidence was held in the armies of France and England.

The Turk's qualities as a soldier are still gauged here by the Balkan war of 1912, and while it is expected that the efforts of German officers in Turkey must have resulted in great improvement, Balkanites generally maintain that the French and British troops have not covered themselves with glory on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

Noise of Rifle Prevents Prison Delivery.
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 7.—The scratching of a file on the iron bars of the "classroom" in the State Penitentiary prevented yesterday the escape of three prisoners who already had overpowered the prison guard and had saved through two of three bars which blocked their way to freedom. The noise of the file was heard by a trustee. He informed the guards, who surrounded the room and overpowered the three prisoners.

4 Killed in Explosives Plant.
EMPHORIA, Pa., Oct. 7.—The drying house of the Asta Explosives Co. here was wrecked by an explosion yesterday. Four laborers were killed and eight injured. It is reported that the company had large war orders.

SOCIETY

THE engagement of Mrs. Marceline Randolph Reymur of 433 Lindell boulevard, to Charles Fletcher Sparks of Alton, Ill., has been announced, and the marriage will take place in the late autumn, when Mr. Sparks and his bride will go to Florida on the Loiterers, Mr. Sparks' yacht, and make a cruise through the Keys.

Mrs. Reymur is popular in the fashionable social set and is the mother of four children, two of whom are grown. Valie and Thomas R. Reymur. The others are a daughter, Marceline, 13 years old, and Francis Clarke Reymur, who is at school, but the mother is remarkably attractive and youthful in appearance. She is the widow of Judge Valle Reymur and belongs to the Randolph family of Virginia origin, but is the daughter of a New Orleans branch.

The affair had its beginning last summer, when Mrs. Reymur was one of a party on Mr. Sparks' yacht.

Mrs. Charles Frederick Bates of 425 Westminister place, and her daughters, Misses Julia and Nancy Bates, are on their way home from Lake Placid, N. Y., where they spent the summer, and are stopping in New York for a visit. They are expected the last of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Schraub, staidier of 405 West Belle place, have closed their home and gone to Charleston, W. Va., to reside. Their daughter, Miss Lucille Schraubstader, was one of the debutantes in winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pelham H. Turner will close "Pelham," the Turner home in Normandy, shortly and go to Pasadena, Cal., for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Pettigill and their family have taken possession of their home at 50 Vandeventer place, the old Shepley place, which they purchased recently and had done over.

Miss Mary Mitchell of 5203 West Pine boulevard, accompanied by her niece, Miss Claire Macbeth, has gone to Pasadena, Cal., to join relatives and spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. P. Hamilton of 3517 Cates avenue have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Florence Nightingale, who graduated from Vassar College last June, to Dr. Ralph Millard, a lawyer of Asheville, N. C. The marriage will be a quiet one and will take place in the Chapel of the Christ Church Cathedral, on the evening of Oct. 19.

Mr. Jacob Mahler's School for Dancing, 611 Washington bl., opens Oct. 14.

The engagement of Miss Fanny Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ferguson of 4880 St. Louis avenue to Arthur T. Johnston of Morrisville, Ill., has been announced. The wedding will take place early in December.

Mrs. G. B. Heuber of 4999 Parkview place, and her son, John, have gone to Cleveland, O., and New York, to stay several weeks.

Attorney-General R. G. Pleasant was already out for Governor, in an attitude toward prohibition that it was expected would be satisfactory to the opponents of liquor. In his statement Pleasant said: "I am for local option, but when ever the question has been submitted in a parish in which I voted I have always voted against license." This did not go far and direct enough for the Anti-Saloon League, however, and the State superintendent of that organization, the Rev. A. W. Turner, issued a call upon all enemies of the liquor interests to support Barret.

Dr. Clarence Pierson is the third gubernatorial candidate and is also said by his friends to be a local optionist.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Oct. 7.—Two hundred and fifty persons, members of a religious sect without a name, who have been holding their annual meeting on a farm in the southern part of Shelby County, have returned to their homes. The people have no organization, but they are generally known as "nonames."

They have no ministers and all have the same right to exhort the brothers and sisters. No member of the flock receives any pay for services. Members believe dress is superfluous, except as to the mere demands of nature. Their clothing is not of the latest style and the women do not wear ornaments of any kind.

GEORGIA GROWERS GETTING ABOVE 11 CENTS FOR COTTON

Reports From "The Hand That Sows" Indicate That Farmers Are Selling Rapidly.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—Georgia cotton growers are taking advantage of the high tide of prices and marketing the staple as rapidly as it comes from the gin. Reports from various points on one day recently gave the range of prices received by farmers from 11 to 11 1/2 cents per pound, the highest since the outbreak of the European war. Warehouses throughout the State contain a considerable quantity of cotton, placed there earlier in the season before demand and advancing values prevailed, and many of the recent sales were of the stored commodity.

The crop in this section of the cotton belt is very short, owing to reduced acreage and unfavorable weather in the spring. Farmers gave more of their land to the production of supplies for home use and were therefore in position to await an advantageous market for cotton.

MRS. EDWARDS AND MISS KAISER PLAY IN WOMEN'S FINAL

Form Wins by Default, While Little Defeats Mrs. Edmunds Two Up at Westwood.

TITLE ROUND SATURDAY

City Golf Championship Rests Between Algonquin and Bellerive Entrants.

Miss Laurie Kaiser and Mrs. A. N. Edwards will play in the final round of the city golf championship Saturday morning at Westwood Country Club's links, Shrewsbury.

That much was decided this morning at Westwood after Mrs. L. P. Aioe had defeated Miss Edwards, while Miss Kaiser won her match from Mrs. Sterling Edmunds 2 up. At the tenth hole Miss Kaiser was five up.

As a result there will be a new woman champion in St. Louis Saturday. Mrs. A. N. Edwards, the present title holder, was eliminated from play yesterday when she lost to Mrs. Sterling Edmunds 2 up.

Miss Kaiser, who was low medalist in the last two tournaments, was given a chance to win from Miss Semple, but it was not even rumored that she would win by such a large score. Mrs. Aioe had been picked by most of the experts to defeat her opponent.

Miss Laurie Kaiser also had a difficult time before she defeated Mrs. Albert Terry to gain entrance to the semi-final. Mrs. Kaiser was 3 down at the turn and only by making the last nine holes in two strokes higher than bogey, did she win out. Mrs. L. P. Aioe had won from Mrs. F. E. Newberry.

Catarrh a Blood Disease

S.S.S. Drives It From Your System

Because Catarrh affects the nose and throat, causing sores in the nostrils, stoppage of air-passages and gathering in the throat, it has been common practice to treat Catarrh by lotions, washes and sprays applied to these parts. This mode of treatment is entirely wrong. It cannot give permanent relief, and it is liable to irritate and aggravate the trouble. Catarrh cannot be treated with it. It allowed to run on will inflame the bronchial tubes, cause the lungs, the stomach—indeed it is a very serious disease. Don't treat it locally. The fact that it causes headaches is proof that it is caused by impure and diseased blood. The one treatment that has proved effective in the treatment of Catarrh is S. S. S. It is the

WRAY'S COLUMN

Lock Up the Family Plate.

THIS is the season of the year when personal property assumes a more or less unstable or shifting character. Men who, before a world's series, owned several hundred dollars, have to figure on wearing out their last season's benny, after the big games are concluded, while the family plate of every fan becomes exceedingly uneasy in the safe deposit vault.

For world's series opinions have to be supported by more than words; and, for the fanatic, what is a more convincing argument than "I'll bet you a hundred!"

That being the case, there have to be favorites and second choices and so it comes to pass that, this morning, there are odds being offered on Boston Red Sox to win the first game.

But the concentrated deduction of 15 years of being stuck in this: "Stay off!"

Many Accidents May Happen.

FOR, while your doping system may be all right, there are, as Harry Davis said, "a thousand different ways to dope" a big series, but only one way that works out. That way may hang on an accidental home run, a fumble at a critical stage, a Snodgrass muffed fly, or a Merkleized play. Such things have been the rule instead of the exception in big games.

As far as any dope goes, it is perfectly clear to the figure that Alexander O'Leary, who has the edge, if he pitches the first game on the home grounds, it is likewise clear that the Red Sox appear the better team.

But betting that these conclusions are going to come out is like betting that, with the winning run of the winning game on third base, a batted ball will NOT hit a trifling cloud and deflect the world's series result.

Saturday's Gridiron Outlook.

SATURDAY will see the football season at its height with the better coached teams beginning to take form and semblance of permanency in mind.

As already mentioned, the big three have games that should be won by them, although last year a different story worked out on the gridiron. The Cardinals, however, have a team without its genius, Coach

Watch These Minor Teams.

OTHER games on Saturday's schedule are even more interesting than those of the "big three." For example, there are eyes have been focused on W. and J. this season, to follow what sort of machine Coach Bob Fowlwell has in the making. Last year W. and J. was beaten in the last minute of play by Harvard, 10-9. It defeated Yale, 13 to 7, ruining a lot of perfectly good dopes that had been arranged by the Eastern statisticians.

Last year the red and black totaled 209 points. In 1923 W. and J. went through a season without defeat, holding Yale to a 0-0 score.

Saturday W. and J. plays Lafayette, an eleven that has at times built up formidable teams. That was when Fowlwell, now at W. and J., was coach at Lafayette. The latter eleven will have a team sufficiently strong to show whether W. and J. has a championship factor in the field again this season.

Another game worth watching will be the Pittsburgh-Navy contest. Georgetown defeated Navy last Saturday, and Pittsburgh must top this to have a look-in for championship recognition. Pittsburgh, you must remember, attains considerable prominence because of the fact that it is being coached by Glenn Warner, who put the Carlisle Indians on the map for so many years.

Rolla Meets Illinois.

IN the West the Big Nine season waxes warmer. Illinois opposes the Rolla School of Mines team, coached by Fred Dennis. Illinois still has several stars of the famous 1914 outfit, and Rolla will have Inlay and three other players of the great team it sent to the front last year. Rolla may make Illinois extend itself in a good workout.

Chicago plays Northwestern in a Big Nine championship game, but there is no hint that the Maroons will suffer serious opposition. Michigan gets into action against a minor college and Minnesota and Wisconsin meet minor teams. Ames may give the Gophers a fairly good test.

In the South the temper of one leading team will be tried out when Georgetown goes to Nashville to play Vanderbilt. Georgetown gave Princeton a fairly good tussle in its opening game of the year.

Penn Is Leading Football State.

GLANCE at the list of football scores any Saturday will show that for teams of ability Pennsylvania is easily the leading State of the country. No other commonwealth can compare with Penn in number of top-notch eleven it produces.

Last year it would have been hard to pick the winner as between several of them. For example, there may be mentioned: Pennsylvania University, Penn State, W. and J., Pittsburgh U., Franklin and Marshall, Lehigh, Lafayette, Bucknell and Swarthmore. There are at least 10 others, any one of which could take Missouri's best State into a nice little argument. Last year there were at least 10 teams in the State of Pennsylvania that probably would have beaten our Tigers.

Pennsylvania must turn out some rare raw material.

Fans Already in Line at Phillies Park for Opening Game of World's Series

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—Thousands of baseball fans in this city rushed eagerly for their early morning mail today to learn whether they had been fortunate enough to secure reservations for the world's championship games between the Philadelphia National League champions and the Boston American titleholders. Those who had taken the precaution to write the management last week and were modest in their request were in most instances rewarded with a notice to report either at the grounds or at the downtown office of the Philadelphia club. The lineup at these places took the place of the long line which in previous years stormed the local department stores where some of the reserved seats were offered to the public.

Although the first game will not be played until tomorrow afternoon and the entrance to the bleachers will not be opened until 10 o'clock on the morning of the game, the line-up for the two seats in that section which was begun yesterday by several men and boys, was augmented during the night and early today was composed of several score fans and numerous small boys who hope to sell their places in line to an advantage.

Former Gov. Tener, president of the National League, expressed satisfaction with the plans of the Philadelphia management for the distribution of reserved tickets and declared that he believed more of the regular patrons of the kind in the city. The line of waiting fans, which was ordered by mail, directly to patrons who had ordered by mail, would minimize the possibility of the tickets getting into the hands of speculators.

Manager Moran plans to put his men through a stiff workout today. The players will be sent through their paces and a lengthy batting practice will be indulged in.

The question whether Bill Killefer will get into the series was still in doubt today. That is, as far as the general public was concerned. His name was again mentioned by a New York expert yesterday. If Killefer cannot go behind the bat tomorrow, he will be compelled to send in Burns. What difference this will make in the outcome of Alexander is hard to tell. The great twirler has been used to having Killefer on the receiving end, but Burns has worked well with the National League in the few games that he has caught him.

The Boston Red Sox, who end the American League season in New York today, will arrive here late tonight and will be accompanied by a New York expert yesterday. The team, however, is reported in good trim, with little need for further preparation.

Manager Moran has invited Manager Carrigan to use the Phillies' practice field whenever he wants to. The American League titleholders may look over the grounds for a little while tomorrow morning and then go to Philadelphia, the home of the Athletics, five blocks away, for a real final workout.

Lauder Named Yale Coach.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 1.—The appointment of William Laudier of Norwalk, Conn., former baseball captain at Brown University and one-time National League pitcher, as coach for the Yale team, was officially announced today.

Keogan's Eleven Will Play First Contest Friday

St. Louis University's football warriors will make their first bow in local gridiron society tomorrow afternoon. The Billikens will entertain a number of young folks from Alton and pass the afternoon in a game of football. It is expected that the visitors will be extended a delightful trimming. Last year they carried away with them a neat little package, in which was a 20-0 defeat. Coach George Keogan will persuade his charges to do more for the Illinoisans tomorrow.

As the city "serious" now in progress, it will be impossible to play the game at Col. Hedges' park, so the High School campus, at King's highway and Manchester, has been delegated as the scene of the festivities.

Bois Pothoff, former Washington U. star, has been selected as the official county high school referee.

JUDGE ORMONDE AND HAL BOY IN A SPECIAL RACE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 1.—A match race for $10,000 has been arranged between Judge Ormonde and Hal Boy to be run before the regular program of the Grand Circuit begins here next Tuesday afternoon.

B. J. McKenzie, the Canadian sportsman, is the backer of Hal Boy, while Trainer C. J. Valentine of Columbus, O., is backing Judge Ormonde. The race will be three in five heats. Hal Boy will be driven by Dick McMahon and Judge Ormonde by Valentine. The backers of the horses have deposited $2000 each with the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association.

PHILLIES PRACTICE IN RAW AIR ON WET FIELD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—The weather early today was cloudy and the northeast wind made the air raw, which compelled the Phillies to start their practice wearing sweaters. Despite the practice from recent rains, Manager Moran planned morning and afternoon practice for all the players.

Many tips have come to Moran on the style of play of the Boston Red Sox.

Tom Burke Has Two Bouts for This Week End

Tommy Burke, St. Louis' leading middleweight boxer, who at present is making a good showing in the East, will be a busy boxer the end of this week.

Tomorrow night, in Philadelphia, before the National A. C., Tom is scheduled to meet Jack McCarron, one of the best 155-pounders in the country. Saturday night he tackles Jack Kelsey at the Clermont A. C., in Brooklyn.

Last Saturday night Burke was returned the winner in a hard bout with Kelsey, having all the better of eight of the 10 rounds.

Browns Gain Tie in Second When Cardinals Kick Base

By putting on their worst baseball, after putting Leon Kalamity Ames out in front three times, the Cardinals managed to hand the Browns a 2-3 tie in 12 innings in the second game of the fall series played yesterday afternoon at Sportsman's Park. With any kind of fielding behind him, Ames would have been returned the winner by shutout in nine innings.

In the fifth, when the Browns scored their first run, errors by Dolan and Beck helped them. With two gone, Austin singled, Lavan popped a single to center, and when Dolan booted, Austin legged it for third. He scored when Beck missed Dolan's throw.

In the ninth, Severid, batting for McCuba, was safe on Horacio's fumble. Shorten beat out a punt, but Waite, who ran for Severid, was nipped off second by Snyder. Austin hit through Beck. Then Shorten was out stealing third. Severid slipped to left and when Smith tumbled, Austin tallied.

The run for the Cardinals in the fourth was earned on Horacio's fumble. With one out, Dolan singled and stole from where he counted.

on Miller's hit, and an infield out. Cards in the seventh.

A pass to Miller, one out, and Miller hit the twirler, a hit by Jacobson, and the game was over.

Tim McCuba, one-handed, who batted in the fourth, made a good impression in his first game. He also had control, passing over the plate.

The Post-Dispatch has news gathered by its own staff and by its correspondents.

The Biltmore Store

(By the House of Kuppenheimer)

THE world respects the substantial—and weight is an asset to the man who is well-enough dressed.

The making of right clothes for stout men should be classed among the Liberal Arts—and the House of Kuppenheimer given a Master's Degree.

There is none of the bagginess about Kuppenheimer clothes that you see about most "stouts" and "extra sizes."

Note this Biltmore Stout, for example. The front of the coat is carefully worked out and tailored. The shoulders and collar especially designed for the short neck of average stout man. The coat skilfully to conceal, not to emphasize, the appearance of corpulence in front.

This is our fashionable three-piece Biltmore Model—with all the correct style detail—cut and tailored for men of full figure and shown in all the new and wanted suitings.

We specialize in clothes for stout young men—for the short, medium and long stout figure. Perfect fitting trousers and vests are much appreciated features of these suits.

Prices—$20 to $40

Kuppenheimer Clothes are sold by a representative store in nearly every Metropolitan center of the United States. Your name on a post card will bring you our Book of Fashions.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell.

Mr. Jarr is at Last Successful in His "Quest of the Golden Girl."

"WHERE is Elmer?" asked Mr. Jarr as he entered Gus' place on the corner.
The sometimes genial proprietor of this sometimes popular cafe looked around his empty establishment with a scowl, and then resumed reading the war news—German version—and did not answer.
"Hey, you!" cried Mr. Jarr, rapping sharply on the bar with the 50 cents that Mrs. Jarr had given him to finance the quest of the Golden Girl into the lair of the Enemy to the Home. "Hey, you! Where's Elmer?"
"You've got a nerve!" snarled Gus, looking up from his newspaper, "a fine nerve to come into my liquor store and ask for a subordinate. Ain't I the boss?"
"Yes, you're the boss all right, but I'm asking you where is Elmer?" If I wanted you, and Elmer was in charge of your jag factory, I'd ask "Where's Gus?"
"It wouldn't be any of his business where I was," retorted Gus.
"Well, what are you sore about because I ask where Elmer is?" Mr. Jarr inquired, seeing it was futile to declare war on Germany at this stage when diplomatic relations might achieve his purpose.
"Business is so bad," said Gus, somewhat mollified at Mr. Jarr's peaceful demeanor, "that I'm glad to see a fly come into the place. Elmer cuts his hand and has to lay off, but do I get a substitute for him? No, I don't. I do the work myself. Only there ain't no work to do."

"Well, that's no reason you should bite my head off when I ask you a civil question, is it?" asked Mr. Jarr.
"Maybe yes and maybe no," retorted Gus. "Business is so bad that Rafferty and Muller, the grocer, and Bepler, the butcher, and Tony, the iceman, and Slavinsky, who is from Russia, don't even come in my place to fight over the war. And so when I tell Elmer, my bartender, that maybe I got to fire him, he tells me that the other brewery will set him up in a liquor store at a stand a couple of blocks from here. I had to knock him down and kick him when he said that, because I'm just like a kind-hearted father: that loafer Elmer."

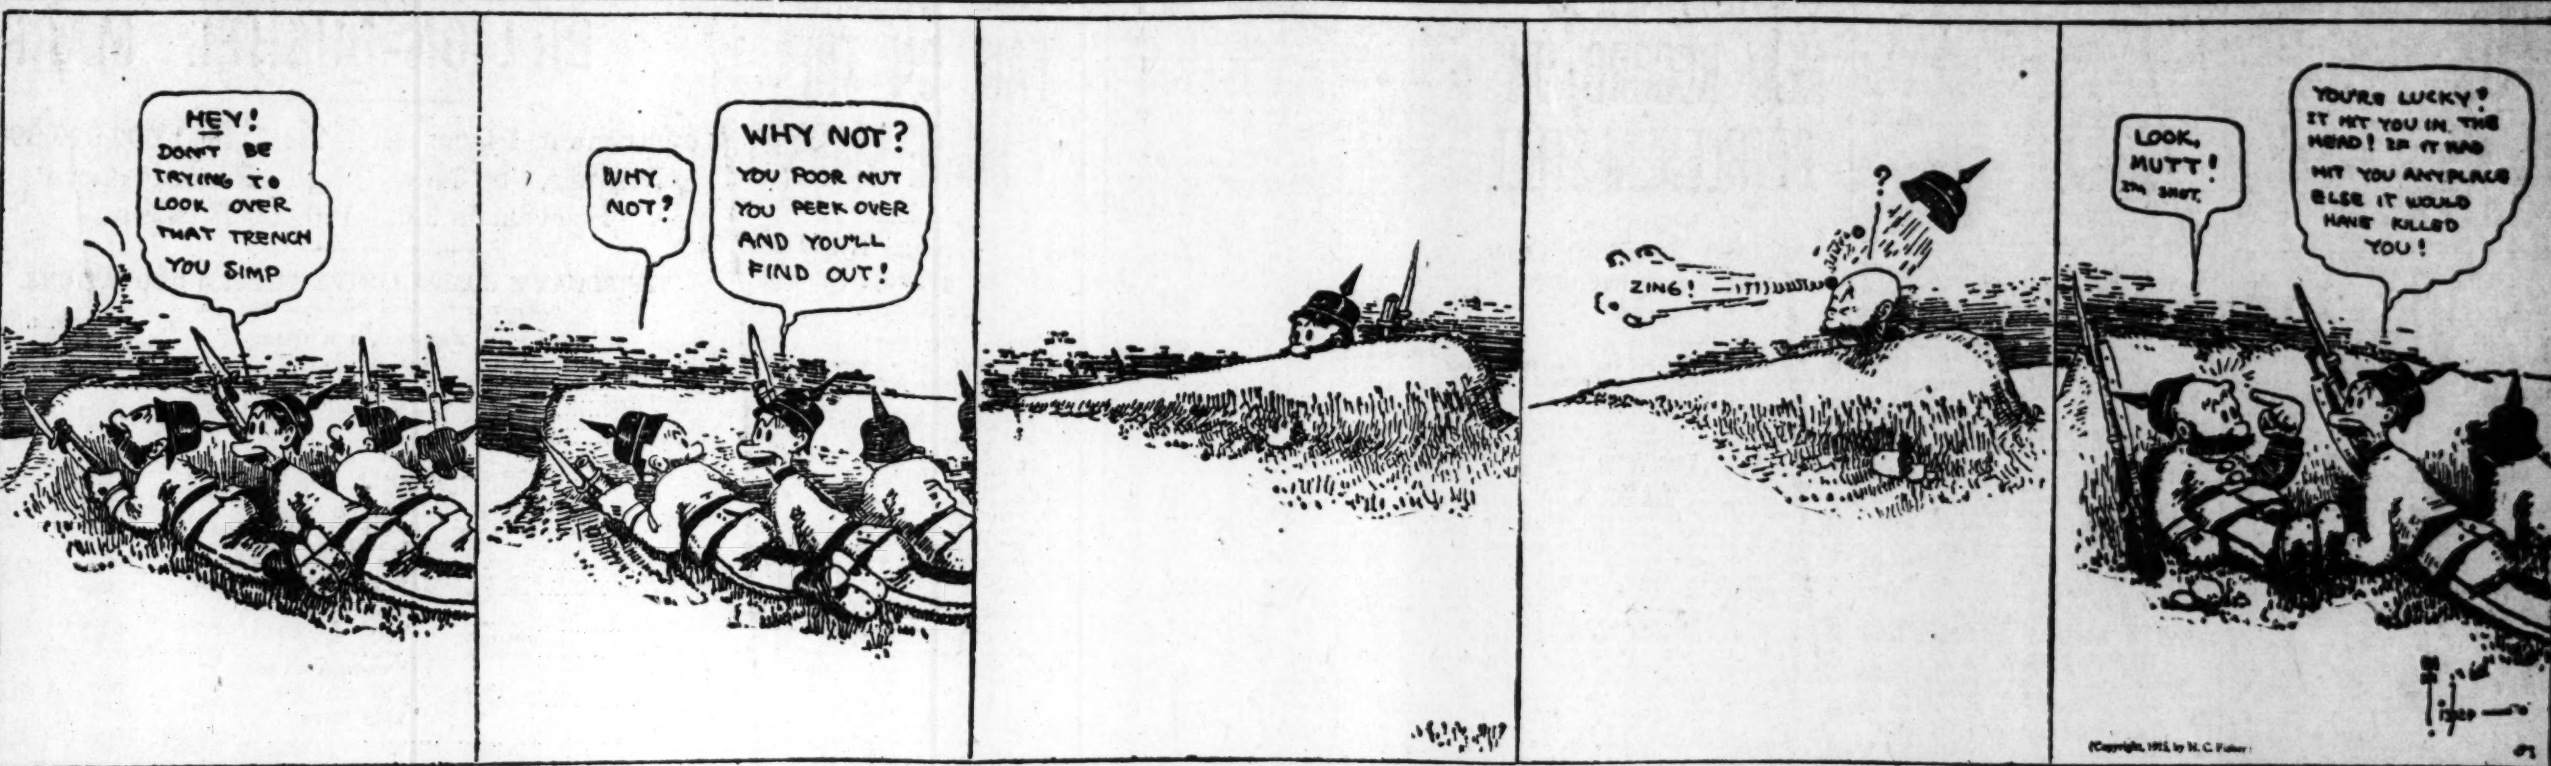

"Elmer? What is Elmer that everybody should ask for him? You should think he was the captain of an underwear, what you call a submarine, the way everybody is looking for him."
"I can't help others looking for him," said Mr. Jarr, "but I would like to see him."

"That's the way a good bartender gets spoiled," muttered Gus. "If you want to see anybody in this liquor store ask for me. Ain't I the boss?"
"How is your wife?" asked Mr. Jarr. Gus felt the touch. "Oh, you never mind," he said, "my wife may be boss when I'm upstairs where we live, but downstairs, where she ain't here, ain't I the boss? And it's my wife, Lena, what I am worried about, because she won't believe it that certain parties only wants to see Elmer, and hangs around here to see him."

"But your wife wouldn't be angry because I want to see Elmer, as you are, would she be?" Mr. Jarr inquired, for he was puzzled at Gus' reference to "certain parties."
"I ain't talking about you," growled Gus. "But all day long, since he cut his hand and went to the dispensary to get it fixed, people has been asking for him. What have I got to do with getting people jobs? What has Elmer, my bartender, got to do with it? This is a liquor store, and it ain't a Dienst-mädchen Stellungs-geschäft Bureau."
"In my worst moments I never called your gin mill such a name as that," said Mr. Jarr, as he mopped his brow. "That name's all right," said Gus.

"It's only a little word in German what means a place where you can go to hire servant girls."
"Who told you I was looking for a servant girl?" asked Mr. Jarr.
"Nobody," replied Gus, "but there has been a party hanging around all day for Elmer because he promised to get her a job for general housework."
Mr. Jarr uttered a cry of triumph and, throwing down the 50-cent piece on the bar, added: "Take your fee, Mr. Proprietor of the 'what-you-may-call-it in German!'"
So saying, he rushed into the back room, and there sat the errant German. He led her back to his domicile, where all was forgiven and where once again that jewel of light-running domes-to rule the Jarr cuisine.

Elmer's hand is entirely healed, and so is peace in Gus' place.
Good Excuse.
IF your honor please, I'd like to get off the jury," said a jurymen to the Judge just as the trial was about to begin.
"You can't get off now without a good reason," said the Judge.
"I have a good reason."
"You must tell it, or serve," said the Judge.
"But, your honor, I don't believe the other fellows would care to have me serve."
"Why not? Out with it! We haven't all day to fool!"
"Well—I've got—got—I've got the—stammered the embarrassed jurymen.
The Judge, losing all patience, yelled: "What the devil have you got?"
"I've got the itch!" cried the poor fellow.
"Mr. Clerk," said the Judge, "scratch that man out."—Philadelphia Record.

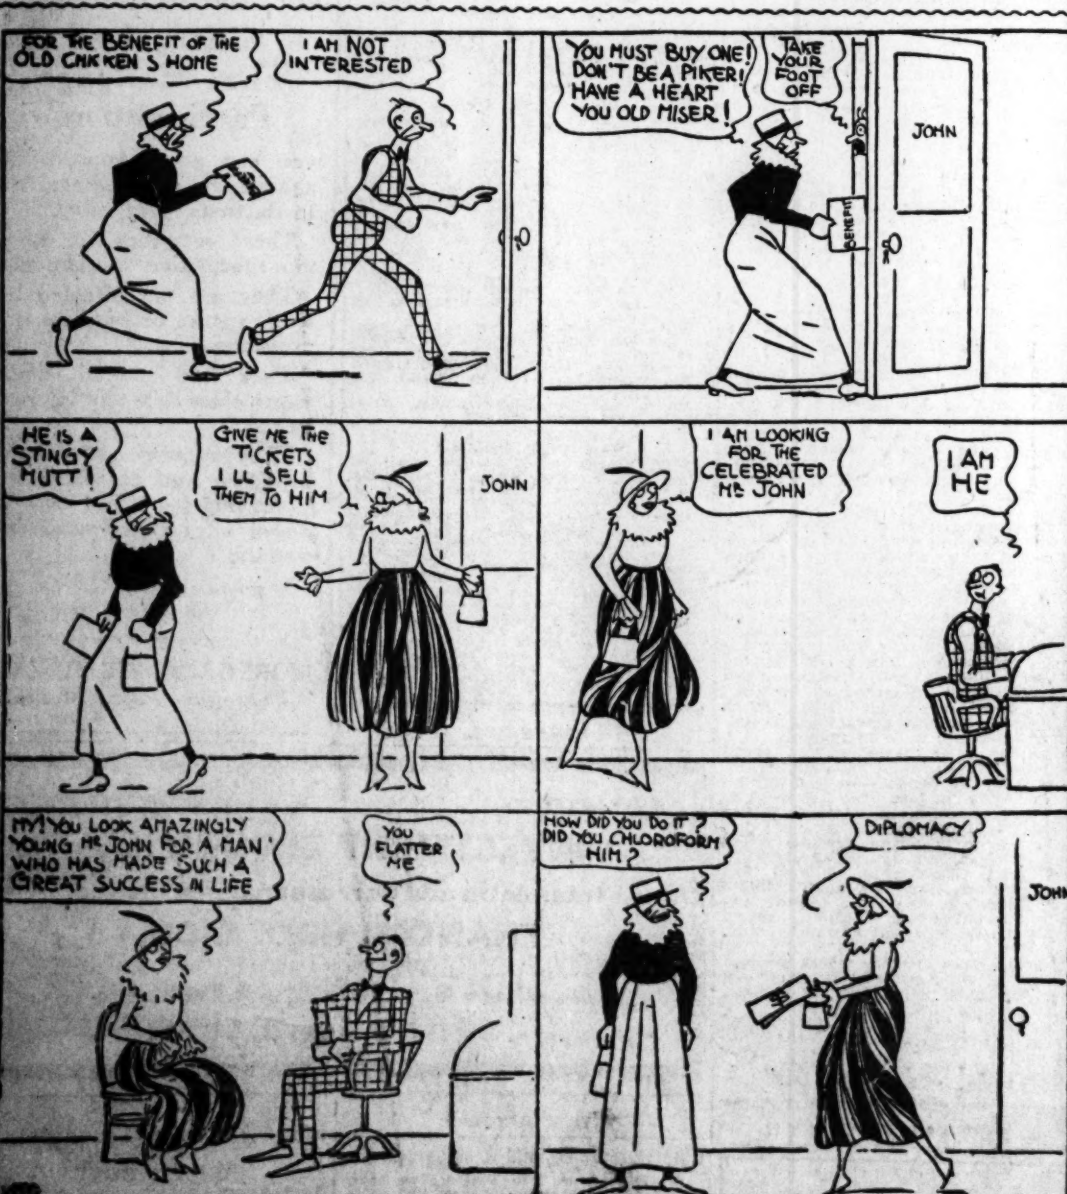

Her Escape.
SHE'S a very intellectual-looking girl.
"Yes, her father didn't make his money until after she had received her education,"—Judge.
The Demonstration Craze.
I DISTINCTLY saw you with the policeman's arms around you."
"Oh, yes, mum; wasn't it nice of him? He was showing me how to hold a burglar if I found one in the house."
—Life.
Up to the Barber.
BARBER: Will you have anything on your face when I have finished, sir?
Victim: I do not know. But I hope you'll leave my nose, at least!

Nothing New.
I SEE," said Bilkins, "that a French scientist has discovered a method for staving off old age."
"Well, what of it?" demanded Wilkins. "There's nothing new in that. I mean one stave off old age by jumping off the Eiffel Tower, or dropping a lighted match in a powder barrel while sitting on it, or by cocking the boat when he's out on the water, or by riding over Niagara Falls sitting astride of a log. These French scientists make me tired with their hullabaloo over nothing.—Harper's Weekly.

Seeing Is Believing.
BACKWARD and forward Johnny marched before the garden gate. He had a brand-new rifle and was playing at being a soldier on sentry duty. To him came the lady from next door, her eyes cold and hard.
"Johnny, did you break my window?" she asked sternly, pointing as she spoke to her damaged property.
Johnny paused in his stride and eyed her thoughtfully.
"Did you see me do it?" he demanded cautiously.
"No, I didn't, but—"
"Then, I didn't!"
And he resumed his marching.
